Tot Deaths Kick Off War On Plastic Bags

Chicago (UPI)—The suffocation of 3 children in 24 hours by flimsy, cleaning plastic bags sparked demands for action Tuesday from dry cleaning establishments which send the bags into American homes.

W. E. Dismore, manager of an Indianapolis cleaning establishment which used the bags, demanded that all of them be labelled "danger." He acted after the fourth Indianapolis child had died while playing with the bags.

In Chicago, Wilbur M. Gage, owner of Magikist Cleaners, said "I will issue orders immediately to discontinue use of these bags.

"We have between $2,000 and $3,000 worth of them on hand, but the investment certainly is not worth exposing one child to the danger involved."

The plastic bags come into almost every home in the nation, covering newly cleaned clothes, groceries, and scores of other products.

Three children played with the bags Monday night and Tuesday and died.

First there was the Indianapolis, baby. Then, at Riegelsville, Pa., 5-month-old Brynn Alma Lanan pulled a plastic garment bag over her head while her mother was gone. She was dead by the time the mother returned.

At Los Angeles, 2-year-old Ruth Marie Perreault climbed into a closet when she was supposed to be taking her nap. Ruth Marie's mother found her dead, inside a 30-inch long plastic bag.

Viscount Disintegrates In Air Near Baltimore

...Twin Mishaps Occur Within An Hour

Baltimore (AP)—A Capital Airlines New York-to-Atlanta Viscount turboprop plane, flying through squally weather, disintegrated with a fiery flash in flight about 15 miles east of Baltimore late Tuesday, killing all 27 passengers and 4 crewmen.

And 280 miles to the west, another Capital Airlines 4-engine plane—a Constellation—plunged over a 200-foot embankment near the end of the runway on landing at the Charleston, W. Va., airport and burst into flames. Two were killed and 6 were hospitalized of the 44-aboard.

First reports said the plane which broke up near Baltimore apparently had been struck by lightning. However, the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington said it had no record of any airliner ever having been exploded by lightning.

Veteran fliers and flight engineers who would not be quoted speculated that the plane was caught in either a sudden downdraft or updraft which ripped off part of a wing, tearing a fuel line. The spilled fuel was ignited by an engine. The rip of the wing and the resulting combustion would be almost instantaneous, they thought.

Ripped Apart

The big craft ripped apart in a ball of fire, spewing bits of wreckage over an area of a mile or two. Some bodies were found in small clusters. Others were hundreds of yards away. Most were mangled, or in bits.

The two accidents occurred within 50 minutes. The Charleston crash was at 4:30 p.m. (EDT). The plane which virtually disintegrated near Baltimore was at 5:18 p.m. (EDT).

It was the 3rd fatal crash for a Capital Viscount in a little more than a year. On April 6, 1959, one crashed at Midland, Mich., killing 47. Another Capital Viscount collided with a jet fighter over Brunswick, Md., killing 17.

Tuesday's tragedies were believed to be the first time in history that a single airline has had two fatal crashes in one day.

Much Turbulence

The squally front through which the Viscount was flying swept through the Baltimore area just before the plane flew through. There was still much turbulence and rain flurries in the area.

The CAB said lightning has frequently hit planes but has caused only slight damage since the electrical charge is not grounded when a plane is in flight.

It sent a team of investigators to the scene.

The viscount — the one which exploded — is powered by jet-driven turbines which turn the propellers. The Constellation, which crashed at Charleston, was powered by by conventional, piston-driven props.

Falls, Burns

Charleston, W. Va. (AP)—A Capital Airlines 4-engine Constellation, landing at Kanawha Airport late Tuesday, plunged over a 200-foot embankment near the end of the runway and burst into flames. Two persons were killed and 6 were hospitalized.

Twenty-two other persons were treated or examined at Charleston hospitals.

The two dead were identified by Capital as B. J. Morrison of Buffalo, N. Y., training engineer, and William M. Riley, Stromberg-Carlson employe of Rochester, N. Y.

'STUCK IN HER THUMB...'

Three-year-old Susan Kreuscher had a tight squeeze Tuesday and couldn't get out of it. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kreuscher of 3727 So. 20th decided she would find out what was in the handlebars of her tricycle, so she stuck her finger inside. "Mommy, I'm stuck!" she cried, and stuck she was. After much tugging, Mrs. Kreuscher took the young explorer to a Lincoln hospital, but doctors and nurses couldn't get her unstuck. Lincoln firemen finally came to the rescue and sawed the bar in two, then put salve on her finger and the episode ended as she pulled free. (Star Photo)

Billboard Regulation Bill Dies

... By 5-0 Vote

By Don Walton

A bill to regulate advertising billboards along the Interstate Highway in Nebraska was chopped down Tuesday by a 5-0 vote of the Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

Two committee members did not vote on the kill motion.

The bill, prepared by Sen. Joe Vosoba of Wilber, was introduced at the request of Gov. Ralph Brooks and signed by Vosoba and Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City.

Twelve witnesses, including representatives of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, the State Department of Roads and the State Game, Forestation and Parks Commission, testified for the bill, LB714.

Advertisers Opposed

Four persons, all representing outdoor advertising interests, spoke in opposition.

Chief committee opposition to the measure appeared to be the unknown possible cost of purchasing advertising rights along the highway's right-of-way in order to control billboards.

The bill provided that the state purchase such rights within 660 feet of the right-of-way by negotiation with individual property owners.

By acquiring those rights and then controlling advertising within the limits of federal regulation, Nebraska would be eligible for an additional .5% of federal aid for total highway costs.

Such aid could amount to $1,250,000 in additional funds,

Eddie And Liz Married In Las Vegas Ceremony

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) —Smile-wreathed Eddie Fisher made radiant Elizabeth Taylor his bride Tuesday 3½ hours after he divorced Debbie Reynolds.

They were united in a Jewish ceremony that, like the divorce hearing, was short and private.

Thus, on a happy note, unfolded the climactic chapter of moviedom's most celebrated triangle story, involving two top beauties and a leading singer.

Miss Taylor, grief stricken at the death last year of third husband Mike Todd, was glowing Tuesday. Fisher seemed scarcely able to control his happiness. Miss Reynolds, in Hollywood making a film, once was bitter but since has said she has no regrets at losing Eddie. She wished the couple happiness and looked as though she meant it.

Depart

After the wedding the bridal party attended a reception then departed for Los Angeles, New York and a European honeymoon.

Asked how they felt as they walked from the temple, they replied in unison: "Wonderful."

"They looked during the wedding like two little angels," the bride's mother said.

The 15-minute wedding was in the modern temple Beth Sholom in a residential area on the edge of the desert. It followed an ancient Jewish ritual including the exchange of rings.

7 Blessings

Before a score of family members and friends the two intoned: "Behold, thou are consecrated unto me by means of this ring, according to the laws of Moses and Israel."

The bridal couple stood under a chuppah, traditional embroidered canopy garlanded with flowers. They sipped marriage wine and were given the 7 blessings. They signed the kessubah, or marriage contract. Male guests wore yarmelkes, black skull caps.

Los Angeles Rabbi Max Nussbaum, who converted Miss Taylor to Judaism, performed the ceremony, assisted by local Rabbi Bernard Cohen.

Twining Lung Lobe Removed

Tissue Examined

Washington (AP) — Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, underwent surgery Tuesday. The upper lobe of his left lung was removed.

Twining

Pentagon spokesmen said it probably will be another two days before the seriousness of his illness can be determined, after the tissue is examined.

The announcement said, however, that Twining's condition after the operation was very satisfactory.

The 61-year-old Air Force officer was recently reappointed by President Eisenhower to a second two-year term as chairman of the service chiefs.

He has been at Walter Reed Army Medical Center since May 3 for tests ordered by doctors who didn't like the looks of chest X-rays taken during a routine physical examination.

Diagnosis

The Pentagon said Monday that chest X-rays indicated a need for further diagnosis and that exploratory surgery was planned.

Tuesday's announcement said merely that the upper lobe of the left lung was removed and the tissue was being examined to establish further diagnosis.

The left lung contains two lobes, upper and lower. The right lung contains 3 lobes—upper, middle and lower.

Big 4 Meet Deadlocked Over Pole, Czech Issue

Geneva (AP) — The big 4 foreign ministers conference deadlocked Tuesday over a Soviet proposal to seat Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia as full participants.

The ministers wrangled inconclusively at their second day's session for more than an hour, then adjourned with the dispute unsettled. The Russians announced they intend to bring up the issue again Wednesday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko advanced the new proposition for enlarging the conference in the wake of his quick defeat Monday on a demand for admittance of Communist East Germany as a full negotiator.

Gromyko insisted that Poland and Czechoslovakia must be included as a tribute to their sufferings from German aggression.

Balk

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his British and French colleagues balked. They urged that the big 4 get on with their big problems, the Berlin and German issues. They suggested that Poles and Czechs might be called in later during discussion of points of specific interest to them.

"The meeting ended with the matter still up in the air," U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew Berding announced later.

Herter, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Maurice Couve de Murville each challenged the Soviet idea.

Herter argued that many difficulties would be raised if "standards of suffering" were used in assessing the claims of nations to attend the conference.

Special Claims

He said Italy also has special claims to be represented, but urged that Gromyko leave the question open for the time being. He reiterated that the big 4 have the primary responsibility for working out a final German peace settlement.

All the westerners called on Gromyko to shelve the proposal for the time being, an American spokesman said, and to let the big 4 proceed with the discussion of German problems.

The second formal session at the Palace of Nations, with Gromyko as the day's chairman, lasted 93 minutes.

Wrangle

The argument could tie up the conference in a lengthy procedural wrangle. But Berding said "we hope the problem is closed."

On the other hand, Gromyko's deputy Valerian Zorin told newsmen:

"The Soviet Union will insist on a positive decision on this problem. We consider that the success of the whole conference will to a large extent depend on the decision."

Zorin left open a question as to whether Gromyko would walk out if the West continues to refuse to seat Poland and Czechoslovakia.

CLOUDS CANCEL 'PICNIC'

Scattered heavy thundershowers in mid-eastern Nebraska and a tornado funnel near Lexington shattered forecasts for a pleasant day weather-wise Tuesday but the Weatherman hopes to improve conditions Wednesday as clear skies with 65 to 75 degree temperatures are predicted.

Thundershowers dumped 1.05 inches of rain on Lincoln during the afternoon and drenched York with 1.30 inches of rain.

The tornado funnel, which swept southwest of Lexington about 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, caused some damage but no injuries were reported.

At the Kenneth Eskeldsen farm south and west of Lexington a garage was flattened and further southwest some tree damage on the Bob Bierman farm was reported. Bierman also said several bales of hay were tumbled about and a wooden cattle chute was moved about 50 feet.

Logan Gottbret, another farmer in the area reported damage to trees and a television antenna. Some power poles in the area were downed.

The mercury rose to 75 degrees at Scottsbluff but dropped into the mid-fifties in the east with Lincoln reporting a high of 56.

Patrolmen Say Wertz Told Of 'Drag Racing'

Two Safety Patrolmen testified Tuesday at William T. Wertz' motor vehicle homicide trial that Wertz told them he and John E. Olney had been "drag racing" just prior to the acciden last Oct. 6 in which Constance Lane of Lincoln as killed.

Troopers Lynn Parks and Perry Emmons said they approached Wertz at the accident scene on a dirt road south of Lincoln and asked the 19-year-old youth how the accident happened. Wertz, they said, replied that he "didn't care to talk about it."

Parks said he then told Wertz that there was a girl (Miss Lane) lying dead on a dirt bank nearby and that he had better start talking.

Trooper's Report

Wertz, the troopers said, then told them that he and Olney had been drag racing along the State 2 cutoff and when they came to the place eztrW cm mm mf ctxz z where the cutoff curves south to join with U.S. 77 they could not negotiate the curve and "this is what happened."

Both Wertz, of 4125 High, and Olney, of 1301 Piedmont, rather than taking the curve instead went straight onto a dirt road where both their cars overturned. Miss Lane, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lane of 2252 Smith, was thrown from the Olney car and killed.

Wertz was alone in his car.

Emmons will continue his testimony when the trial resumes at 9 a.m. in Lancaster District Court before Judge Paul White. He is expected to tell of a written statement

The alleged assailant was held on an open charge.

Tokyo (AP) — Japan has made its 5th and final payment of $3,080,000 to Thailand on a World War II debt resulting from issuance of military script by Japanese forces in Thailand, the Foreign Office announced.

Astronauts Get 1st Look At Capsule

St. Louis (AP)—"I'm afraid of the height."

This joking remark was made by one of 7 American volunteers for outer space flight as he climbed the 3-foot-high base of a model of the space capsule.

It was the Astronauts' first look at the capsule which is designed to take one of them in orbit around the earth. They smiled as they examined it.

Some day—probably in 1961—one of them will climb into the one-seat capsule for a whirl around the earth at terrific speed.

Just which man will make the first flight won't be decided until shortly before the flight. And their escape system must be proven completely reliable beforehand.

The men posed good-naturedly for more than 30 minutes of picture taking. No interviews were permitted.

Committee Divides Reward—

Starkweather 'Victim,' Trucker, Split $1,000

The Nebraska Legislature's Salaries and Claims Committee voted Tuesday to make Maynard Behrends of Broken Bow, Neb., and Joseph S. Sprinkle, Denver, Colo., the recipients of a $1,000 reward offered by the state last year for the apprehension of killer Charles Starkweather.

The legislature as a body still must approve the appropriation.

Former Gov. Victor Anderson offered the reward in January of 1958 while Starkweather, then 19, and his girl friend, Caril Ann Fugate, then 14, were being sought in connection with a series of Lincoln-area killings:

Spotted Car

Behrends spotted the car in which the couple was traveling westward toward Wyoming, even before the last of the Lincoln killings had been discovered, and notified Safety Patrol authorities.

Sprinkle encountered Starkweather on a highway near Douglas, Wyo., and wrestled with and disarmed the killer, who made a getaway then but was captured shortly thereafter.

Starkweather is scheduled to die in Nebraska's electric chair May 22 for first degree murder. Caril Fugate, similarly convicted, is serving a life sentence.

Clay Hopes Berlin Nuclear War Can Be Averted

SUMMIT MEETING IS BEST HOPE

. . . To Ease Tensions

Berlin (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, postwar U.S. military governor of Germany, Tuesday expressed hope a summit meeting can avert the danger of nuclear war over Berlin.

Addressing a mass rally on the 10th anniversary of the end of the Soviet blockade of this isolated city, Clay warned that another Allied airlift would not be the answer to a new Communist clampdown on West Berlin.

"Soon the government chiefs of the 3 great Western powers will meet with the Russians, in order to take up the Berlin problem in connection with the greater European problem," Clay said.

"It is good that this meeting should take place. As long as tensions endanger peace, we must come together and explore every earthly possibility of doing away with such tensions . . .

"I cannot believe that another war will break out. The long range aircraft of today and its atomic bomb and the rockets of tomorrow have such destructive power that no nation can expect to gain from any victory."

At the same time, Clay made clear that the United States and its allies intend to stand by West Berlin and to keep it free even at the risk of World War.

Comedian Winters Arrested

San Francisco (UPI)—Television comedian Jonathan Winters was taken into custody by the harbor patrol Tuesday and held in the psychiatric ward of the San Francisco Hospital for observation.

Winters, currently appearing at a San Francisco night club, was arrested on the old-time square-rigged sailing vessel "Balclutha," which is on public exhibition at the city's embarcadero.

Police said the caretaker of the vessel, Julius Larsen, called them twice and complained that a man was acting "irrationally" on the ship. On the first call police recognized Winters and dismissed the incident as "a publicity gag."

But the second time, a half hour later, the harbor patrol went to the Balclutha, and cuffed Winters and took him into custody.

"We could get no sense from him at all," said Anthony Trinchero, one of the 3 arresting officers. "He was making faces and acting like he does on television. You ask him his name and he says he is John Q from outer space and had been here for light years."

Cunningham Ribs Senate Over New Office Quarters

Washington — Rep. Glenn Cunningham of Omaha Tuesday chided the Senate for construction of its new $25.5 million Senate Office Building.

"It is hoped," the Second District Republican said, "that Congress may sooner or later learn that economy, like charity, begins at home.

"If the executive branch had bungled in the construction of a federal building as the senators have in building their own offices, what an investigation and uproar there would be."

Cunningham said additional millions of dollars will have to be spent to "correct errors" and complete work on the new Senate building and its subway to the Capitol.

Billboard Bill Dies

Vosoba told the committee, or about $2,500 per mile. Federal funds already are allocated to pay 90% of the superhighway's costs.

LB714 would authorize the state engineer, "except when to do so would be an undue financial burden on the state," to acquire advertising rights by negotiation or condemnation.

"Although I can't say what the cost of easement might be," Vosoba said, "I am convinced it (LB714) would result in a savings to the state."

The Wilber senator said his bill did not seek to prohibit billboards along the Interstate. It only provides "reasonable control," he pointed out.

In addition to spurring additional federal participation, Vosoba said, billboard regulation would preserve Nebraska's beauty and provide an incentive for tourists to visit the state.

Sen. John Cooper of Humboldt raised the question as to what would be a fair price for advertising rights. Sen. J. O. Peck of Columbus suggested that cost of acquiring the rights would exceed an additional .5% federal aid.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said he thought state highway appraisers were already doing "a bad job" in acquiring right-of-way for the Interstate. He also had criticism for routing of the superhighway through downtown Omaha.

Signs which would be permitted by federal regulation, Federal Division Engineer Albert Spann testified, include official signs; advertising of activities to be conducted on the premises where advertised; signs within 12 miles of the advertised activities, and signs "in the specific interest of the traveling public."

Regulation would not be effective on right-of-way adjacent to property owned by the state prior to July of 1956; in areas within the corporate limits of municipalities, and areas zoned for industrial or commercial use.

"This is the one chance we'll ever have to restrict billboards," former Gov. Robert Crosby, representing the Better Nebraska Assn., said. "We'll suffer by comparison if we don't."

Also appearing for the bill were L. A. Enersen, Lincoln Nebraska Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; J. B. Beck, Lincoln, Izaak Walton League; Dr. James Sellers, Lincoln, Nebraska State Historical Society; Game Commission Director Mel Steen; Harold Salter, special assistant attorney general for the Department of Roads; Miles Johnston, Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council; W. R. McGeachin, Lincoln; Linus Burr Smith, Lincoln.

NEW CHIEF FOR LAFB

Col. John C. Watson, who assumes command of the 818th Combat Support Group July 10, paid an unexpected visit to the Lincoln Air Force Base Tuesday. Col. Watson, now commander at Blytheville AFB, Ark., will replace Col. Felix Hardison, who leaves the Lincoln Base this week to become a professor of air science at Montana State College, Bozeman, Mont.

Church Approves Building Program

The congregation of College View Presbyterian Church, 46th and Prescott, voted Tuesday evening to begin a program to increase the size of the Christian education facility and replace or renovate the sanctuary.

The Rev. Dean Hay, pastor of the church, said the congregation set the fund-raising campaign for June 20-28. Ben Hemphill of Hemphill and Vierk has been engaged as the architect for the project.

Grier R. Baymun of New York, a representative of the National Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church, will direct the Lincoln campaign.

"The campaign itself has no dollar goal," the Rev. Mr. Hay said, "as our goal is to complete these two projects."

Don Miller Heads Church Expansion Study Committee

Donald Miller of 1863 Morningside Dr. has been named chairman of a long-range planning committee for expansion of the Second Presbyterian Church, 26th and P.

The Rev. Ellis Butler said the congregation voted to start a fund-raising campaign soon in connection with the future expansion.

Additional educational facilities and possibly a new sanctuary are in the plans he said. Redecoration of the chapel and sanctuary and construction of a mothers' room were also approved by the congregation.

Board Of Health Collects $3,571

The Lincoln-Lancaster County Board of Health Tuesday reported the health department collected a total of $3,571 in fees during April.

Total fees collected from July, 1958 through April of this year totaled $24,359.

Expenditures for April totaled $13,434.

'Wertz Told Of Racing' —Patrolman

he took from Wertz at the accident scene.

Another prosecution witness, Daniel McGinty of 3040 Leighton, shop foreman for a local auto agency, testified that the Olney car was equipped with special carburetion and exhaust systems but that Wertz' car had no such extra accessories which would increase its speed.

Aids And Abets

County Atty. Elmer Scheele, in his opening statement, told the jurors that state law provides that a person who "aids or abets" another in the commission of a crime is as guilty as the principal offender.

He said the evidence will show that Wertz in drag racing with Olney did aid in the commission of the crime of motor vehicle homicide. Olney was convicted of the charge in April and sentenced to 1-2 years in the Men's Reformatory and fined $500.

Olney, 18, has appealed the conviction to the State Supreme Court.

Fell In Behind

Defense Atty. Jack Devoe said in his opening statement that as Olney and Wertz approached the cutoff curve Wertz, seeing a railroad warning sign, braked and fell in behind the Olney car which was to his left.

Devoe said the Olney car blocked Wertz' path so Wertz continued straight onto the dirt road to "give Olney all of the chance he could" in an "emergency situation."

Devoe also said the curve is not preceded by a warning sign. This was a chief point used by the defense at Olney's trial in attempting to prove the accident was caused by improperly maintained county roads.

The trial is expected to be completed by late Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning.

Teacher Fund Interest Rate Hiked To 3%

The interest rate on contributions of teachers in the Teachers Retirement System was boosted to 3%, State Retirement Systems Director Glenn I. Anderson reported Tuesday.

Anderson said the Board of Educational Lands and Funds, which handles the investment of the funds, boosted the rate ½%. It has been 2½% for the past 3 years.

The director said the increased interest will affect some 16,000 accounts. There is about $10 million in the school employes savings account, he said.

The increased interest is retroactive to the previous June balance from the time the money in the fund was invested.

Anderson said the board has been buying government bonds at a discount and the interest fund has a substantial balance.

Anderson said the effect of the increase would be to boost the interest paid on $2,000 accounts from $50 to $60 a year. He said there are several accounts which already have reached $2,000.

Bill Switching Funds Advanced To Unicam

The Budget Committee Tuesday advanced to the floor of the Legislature LB717 which would provide that certain fees paid to the State Railway Commission be placed in the state general fund.

BOVEY READIES WRITTEN REPORT

State Penitentiary Warden Joseph Bovey Tuesday night was preparing a written report requested by the Board of Control in answer to charges leveled against Bovey by the governor's office.

Administrative Assistant Robert Conrad Monday delivered a request from Gov. Ralph Brooks that the warden be fired.

Bovey told The Star he hoped to complete the report sometime Wednesday.

Dig Up Everything

"I've got a lot of work to do," he said. "I'll dig up everything that's pertinent."

Bovey huddled with the Board late Monday to give oral answers to the various Conrad charges, including overuse of some foodstuffs, poor business practices, use of state property for private purposes and low inmate morale.

The Board then requested a report in writing from the warden.

"We plan to go into all the items thoroughly," Board Chairman Mrs. Catherine Martin said Tuesday.

Asked if other persons would be called for testimony, she declined comment.

Visit To Pen Possible

Investigation "could" entail a visit to the institution by the 3-member Board, Mrs. Martin said. However, she noted, there are no definite plans to do so at this time.

Board members Charles Leeman, Harold Peterson and Mrs. Martin conferred only informally about the matter during the day.

The chairman informed Conrad that the Board was awaiting a written report from Bovey before any further action would be forthcoming. There was no contact with the warden Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Board is pursuing its records on such matters as foodstuffs and maintenance at the Penitentiary, Mrs. Martin indicated.

Bovey's report, he said, will be chiefly an elaboration of the testimony he gave to the Board at the closed meeting Monday. However, he noted, considerable detail which was not available to him at that time will be included in the report.

Mrs. Martin said she expected the warden's report would be "about the same" as the oral testimony.

Conrad asked Bovey to resign his post last Friday. When the warden declined, the gubernatorial aide prepared the governor's case which was presented to the board in a lengthy session Monday.

Full-Time City School Custodians Ask 9-Cent Hourly Raise

By Nancy Ray

A lower hourly wage for part-time employes, and increases and adjustments in salary schedules for full-time Lincoln Public Schools custodians and maintenance men was requested before the Lincoln School Board Tuesday.

The proposed salary revisions, along with automatic increments given for each year's service would boost the maintenance employes budget by about $21,000.

A re-evaluation of the salary schedule and correction of "increment irregularities" was also asked.

The custodial help are requesting a 9-cent hourly increase which would mean an approximate salary hike of $185 yearly.

Most of the increases asked were for longer service and higher ranking employes. R. J. Bauer, operations and maintenance supervisor stressed the need for readjusting wages of skilled trades workers, such as electricians and plumbers, to bring their hourly pay up to about 70% of union scale.

Donald Flanagan, chairman of the salary committee, presented a plea for a revised salary schedule which would include:

—Reduction of the hourly pay for part-time workers to $1 an hour minimum, and a maximum of $1.50 after 2 years of service.

—Priority for the part-time positions to members of the full-time maintenance staff.

—Extra-time pay hike for regular employes from $1.50 an hour to $1.75.

—Yearly increments be given regular employes hired after July 1 and before Jan. 1, on the next July 1.

Schools Growing

Flanagan pointed out that "many of the schools have been greatly increased in size and many are now having activities such as basketball, swimming, night school ... that were not in existence when the schedules were made... (and) require more responsibility, work, time and effort on the part of custodians in charge."

The lower wages for part-time employes are due to the prevailing $1-$1.25 pay scale for such employment in Lincoln, Flanagan said, plus the decreased efficiency of many employes who hold full-time employment elsewhere.

The schools employ about 180 custodians and 65 maintenance men.

The board took no action Tuesday on the new salary hike requests. Teachers and clerical workers have also submitted salary recommendations to the board which have not yet been acted upon.

Local Dog Just Misses Perfection

A Lincoln dog missed a perfect score by just one point in obedience trials at a Lawrence, Kan., dog show last weekend.

Roy King's springer spaniel tied for high score at the show by scoring 199 out of a possible 200 points. The event marked the first time the dog had been entered in such an event.

King belongs to the Cornhusker Kennel Club of Lincoln which participated in the Lawrence and Topeka, Kan., shows.

Other winers from the club included:

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crosley's Irish setter, best of breed at both shows.

Henry Furst's pug, best of opposite sex at Topeka.

Donald Beaman's pug, winners dog at Topeka.

Mrs. Marilyn Caldwell's dalmation, winners dog at Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Erich Hartmann's dachshund, best of winners at Topeka.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hollister's springer spaniel, best of winners at Topeka.

Mrs. Donald M. Pace's old English sheepdog, breed honors at Lawrence. The dog also completed obedience title.

Mrs. James C. Lewis, old English sheepdog, best of breed at Topeka. The dog also completed obedience title.

Taylor Withrow's beagle, companion dog obedience title at Lawrence.

Mrs. Bob Danley's collie, best of opposite sex at Little Rock, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn., shows.

Eye Relief

Baltimore (AP) — Pharmacist M. L. Cooper is stocking leeches on his shelves these days. The public demands it, he says. The retail price is $1.50 per worm. Most of his sales are to people with shiners, who contend one leech usually will drain the coagulant from one black eye. "They don't cause infection," says Cooper, "and they're cheaper than beefsteak."

Richard Cohen, 13, Tuesday night received the coveted Eagle Scout status in ceremonies at Sheridan Lutheran church, 37th and Sheridan Blvd.

Richard was the fifth of Mrs. Hill's children or grandchildren to become Eagle Scouts. The honors had gone earlier to Leo Hill and two of his sons, Gary and Joe.

Officiating at Tuesday night's ceremonies were Leo Hill, representing the Cornhusker Council; James Exon, chairman of the scout committe for Troop 49, sponsored by the Sheridan Lutheran Church Brotherhood, and Curt Sanford, Scoutmaster.

Group To Discuss 'Nervous Floors' At State Mansion

The Capitol Building Commission will meet Wednesday to consider possible action regarding the "trembling floors" at the Governor's Mansion.

Members of the commission, all of whom indicated they would be present for the conference, will meet with Administrative Assistant Robert Conrad at the Statehouse Wednesday morning.

They will then lunch with Gov. Ralph Brooks at the Mansion, Conrad said.

The governor has asked that "corrective action" be taken to alleviate the "trembling." Expenditure for the work has been estimated at $5,000.

'Top Faculty' Said Reason Grants To U Of N Increased

Dr. John C. Weaver, University of Nebraska research administrator, reviewed the recent increase in grants for research and training, and complimented the "top-caliber faculty" as the reason for the donations.

Speaking before a Faculty Senate meeting Tuesday, Dr. Weaver said that grants from the federal government, foundations and industrial groups totaled $1,711,000 for the past year compared to $1,400,000 for the preceding year.

The increase of more than a quarter of a million dollars is a tribute to the University's top caliber staff, he said, and "without this money, financing of our research projects would be impossible."

Grants received for the past year came primarily from federal agencies, which contributed 79%, including about 66% which came through the U.S. Public Health Service. Other sources were: state government, 1%; non-governmental sources, 20%.

The funds were distributed within the University: 59% to the college of medicine, 22% to the college of arts and sciences, 13% to the college of agriculture, and the remaining 6% to the remaining 6 colleges.

Dr. Weaver also reported that the University Research Council increased its support by 55%, allocating $100,000 to the promotion of scholarly activities by the University staff.

Girl Is Wounded By Bullet Fired Through Window

New York (UPI) — A 12-year-old girl sitting in her class at school was wounded Tuesday by a bullet fired from outside the building.

Eleanor Kaplan was in a third floor classroom when the bullet shattered a window and ricocheted into her back. She was taken to a hospital and was in good condition.

The bullet was found on the floor. It apparently was dislodged from the girl's back while she waited for an ambulance. Police said the bullet apparently was fired from a building across the street.

Prof Young Heads NU Faculty Senate

Lyle Young, associate professor of engineering mechanics, was elected as secretary of the University of Nebraska Faculty Senate Tuesday.

Young will serve a one-year term.

Exam Study Day Wins Faculty OK

A student-sponsored request for a "free day" between final examinations and the last day of classes won approval Tuesday in the University of Nebraska Faculty Senate.

The extra day prior to exams will be put into the 1960-61 university calendar to allow a period for review and study.

Washington (AP) — A strike by two building trade unions halted work on the new State Department building and other construction projects in the Washington area. The strikers, members of the Operating Engineers and Laborers Unions, are demanding wage increases.

No Chance For Compromise

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

While the American people are quite naturally hopeful about the possibilities of a summit conference in which East-West tensions might be eased, there are some fundamental principles that should not be forgotten. They are important principles in any consideration of international affairs as well as our national defense program.

In plain, simple terms, the Soviet Union has no intention of ever living indefinitely in the same world with capitalism. This does not necessarily mean that the Kremlin will go to war with the West but it should be enough to convince us that the intent of Communism is to conquer and destroy capitalism, in one way or another. For some, it may be a little difficult to understand this when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev makes such statements as the one he has just issued on the summit conference issue.

Not Room For Both

"Of course," the seemingly genial premier said, "not all questions can be solved at a single meeting. We want to solve all controversial or unsolved problems without war." This sounds like a man who really wants peace, and he undoubtedly does. But he wants peace at his price and his price is the destruction of the West's free way of life.

He will exact his price, if we do not stop him, by economic gains, political action and plain old propaganda — if not by outright war. If you doubt this, you should have a look occasionally at the releases which come regularly through the mails from the Soviet embassy in Washington.

★

The embassy press department's most recent release is a report on the remarks of Leonid Brezhnev, member of the presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, made at the April 22 celebration of the 89th anniversary of Lenin's birth.

Here are a few quotes from this report: "Socialism has become a world system constituting a mighty and irresistibly-growing force. No matter how much the imperialists dream of restoring the power of the bourgeoisie and landowners in the countries of socialism, this will never happen . . . The socialist system, its successes and achievements, exert a tremendous influence on all developments in the world, inspire the peoples to the struggle for liberation from capitalist exploitation and colonial oppression . . .

"The fulfillment of the seven-year plan, and also of the programs adopted by the other socialist states will make the world socialist system so strong that even the most rabid 'positions of strength' advocates will realize how dangerous it would be for them to unleash a war against the socialist nations. Contemporary developments show that even prior to the complete victory of socialism on this planet, while capitalism still remains in a part of the world, there will be a concrete possibility of ruling global war out of mankind's life."

We have never been able to figure out why the Soviet embassy puts out this kind of material. Except for the most ignorant and gullible, it could do nothing but strengthen the conviction of the American people that Communism and democracy cannot live forever in the same world.

By some peculiar way of thinking, they may believe that even such publicity as this somehow serves their purpose. But as we see it, the report makes it quite clear that socialism as Russia would describe it definitely prescribes the elimination of competing political or social philosophies. Thus, the struggle between East and West will never be ended around a conference table, be it square or round. Somewhere, some place, it will be ended when one or the other can no longer survive from a variety of possible forces.

Socialism's Goal

Obviously, the U.S. will never be able to relax with a mere meeting of minds on one of the many current and separate issues of the day such as the Berlin or Germany problem. These things are nothing but stepping stones along the Communist path. America will have to remain strong in purpose and deeds to avoid becoming a victim of the Red march.

"Welcome To Geneva"

A Play On Words

No matter what domestic subject one can raise, Russian propaganda can always arrive to get in its two-bits worth.

Taxes are a galling American subject. So it was to be expected that the Soviet embassy at Washington would try to make capital of it. The embassy has cranked out an article which points the finger at Russia as the exceptional country which has virtually no taxes now, and soon will have none.

The article says that taxes account for but 7.8 per cent of the government budget.

This is a provocative statement and probably a correct one if one does not get down to the petty argument of the meaning of the words. But while Americans would dearly love to have a government that could do all it does today at 7.8 cents on the dollar, prudence counsels against any mass migration to Russia.

Technically Russia applies but two types of tax. One is an income tax ranging from 1.5 per cent to 13 per cent. The other is an agricultural tax which is a way of reaching the farmer who, by the character of his occupation, would be otherwise out of reach of the Soviet treasury.

Actually Russia derives most of its government income from having socialized business and industry. It fixes prices, wages and production and pockets all of the profit. That is just another way of levying a total tax, a different name, of course, with the added advantage of setting the levy at any desired level without being required to argue it with anyone.

This serves the government's purpose magnificently, but an examination of the way of life of the average Russian fails to reveal that he gets any of the benefits of it.

Entitled To Support

Senator Hans O. Jensen, Aurora, spoke for a growing number of forward-looking Nebraskans when he asked the legislature to throw its influence behind a proposed federal soil and water research laboratory in the Great Plains States.

The legislature, no doubt, will attach the importance to the move it deserves.

Senator Jensen, himself, knows whereof he speaks in the field of water and conservation. His Hamilton county has been the seat of a distinguished piece of resources development, marrying it's abundant water resources with its rich top soil for a productive abundance that is the source of admiration and envy.

A soil and water research laboratory would achieve two essential goals. It would give the region a more complete picture of its vital resources. It would emphasize the merits of reclamation and lay the foundation for expansive practical planning.

Perhaps the greatest misconception of reclamation is that it was originally applied as a rescue operation for the 17 semi-arid western states. But the logic of the improvement wrought by maximum use of insufficient resources is even more valid when it is applied to areas where the resources, though undeveloped, are in abundant supply.

The process of education must take its time. But it is inevitable that the conservation concept will lead Nebraska to economic heights beyond the imagination of many present-day thinkers. Time will bring the achievement, but leadership such as evidenced by Senator Jensen can hasten the day.

Tax Picture Brightens

There won't be much public disagreement with two recent actions of the Legislature in the tax field. Of no small importance was adoption of an amendment which leaves tax records open to public inspection. The bill involved was originally intended only to assist the state tax commissoner in one specific area where stock holders could take advantage of certain information to avoid taxation.

Unfortunately, the bill was then given a section which closed intangible tax records to public inspection. Adoption of the bill in that form would have deprived the state of one of the major tools of tax enforcement — public knowledge of tax evasion. It would also have deprived the public of a valuable assurance. Public access to tax records is an added guarantee against any form of dishonesty among public officials.

While no abuses in either of these lines were a part of the debate, their possibility could hardly be denied under a system of closed tax records. There is probably no greater single detriment to dishonesty in all phases of government than public scrutiny of the records, and activities of that government.

The other improvement in the tax situation came with approval of the bill to tax pari-mutuel betting on its first floor test. The measure still must survive a final vote but it has now shown a lot of strength. There can be little valid criticism of the tax on horse racing. If it hurts anyone, it hurts only those who more or less ask for it. And such racing is taxed in other states which have it.

Aside from its moral issues, racing has some good points for the state of Nebraska. It represents a substantial piece of economy within the state. But the 2 per cent tax on racing with a $1 million exemption will not break up the business. Nebraska will have to continue to look at other means of broadening its tax base if it is to grow and prosper in the future.

Time To Change

It is no secret that President Eisenhower and ex-President Truman rub each other the wrong way. No one knows how it started. But the other day he did the courteous thing when he invited Mr. Truman to a stag affair for Winston Churchill at the White House. Mr. Truman refused to go. In terms of bad manners that now ties the score. It suggests that the game should end here and a new start on a warmer basis which would be more pleasing to America.

Thurmond Touches On Lee And Lincoln

WASHINGTON — Over an early breakfast eaten behind closed doors, South Carolina's Dixiecrat Sen. Strom Thurmond drew a spiritual lesson the other day from the two great leaders of the Civil War—Robert E. Lee of the South and Abraham Lincoln of the North.

Thurmond spoke to a handful of senators who meet privately each Wednesday morning to worship together. What is said at their prayer breakfast is kept between them and their Maker. No senator attends for the political good it might do him back home.

However, Thurmond's remarks so impressed his listeners that this writer would like to report the highlights.

"As Lincoln in the North would likely have done had he lived, Lee did his best to heal the wounds of war," said Sen. Thurmond. "On many occasions, unhappy, disillusioned southerners attempted to get fuel for bitterness from him.

"'But Gen. Lee, did you never feel any bitterness toward the North?' one such southerner asked him.

"His answer came in quiet tones: 'I believe I may say, looking into my own heart and speaking in the presence of God, that I have never known one moment of bitterness or resentment."

☆ ☆ ☆

Of Lee, Thurmond declared: "The more one studies the character of Robert Edward Lee, seeking to probe its depths, discover its ultimate touchstone and secret, the more one is convinced that the foundation of the man's whole nature was a deep religious humility . . .

After Lee's sad surrender, Sen. Thurmond told how he accepted the presidency of small Washington College in the Shenandoah Valley.

"The salary was to be $1,500 annually," reported Thurmond, "if funds were available. He accepted this position only after explaining to the trustees his serious doubts as to whether he could do full justice to the job . . . In taking over the administration of war-torn Washington College, Lee first built a chapel . . . He lived but five years after taking the oath of presidency; yet his vigor, clarity of vision, and wisdom of policy in these few years earned for him and his college a position in the history of American Education."

☆ ☆ ☆

Of Lincoln, the senator earlier said: "He was always a good man with the highest moral principles. Shortly before the death of his mother, he promised her that he would never drink liquor, and he kept that pledge to his death. His strongest profanity, if you wish to call it that, was his use of the phrase, 'By Jing.' His honesty was legendary, as was his kindness. He was a great and good man . . . He studied God's word and tried to apply it to his own life until, finally, it became the foundation for a strong and unshakable faith."

Strauss Not Yet Over The Hurdles

WASHINGTON — The day of decision on the confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of Commerce is drawing close. The outcome now appears to be a matter of touch and go.

This week the Senate Commerce Committee will hear its last witnesses on the Strauss nomination, barring developments now unforseen. There will follow a brief wait while the voluminous record of the hearing is printed. Within perhaps two weeks, the Strauss appointment will be voted on by the committee and then it will go to the full Senate for final action.

With all Republicans and some Democrats voting for him in the committee, Strauss is expected to come out scathed but alive. The real test will come on the floor of the Senate.

Senator Clinton Anderson, the New Mexico Democrat who is the chief Strauss foe in the Senate, predicts that Strauss may be rejected. Anderson declares he does not engage in filibusters, but is not averse to "prolonged debate." It is likely that debate on the Strauss confirmation will take longer than that accorded the nomination of Clare Boothe Luce as ambassador to Brazil.

Another senator noted for his disapproval of Admiral Strauss declares there will be a minimum of 30 votes against him. If this is all, it will insure confirmation. Nevertheless, an adverse vote of such proportions would be a heavy burden for a member of the cabinet to carry.

☆ ☆ ☆

Originally Anderson had not intended to testify against Strauss in the Commerce committee hearings. As chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, the congressional watchdog over the Atomic Energy Commission, Anderson had early become disenchanted with the then AEC chairman, Admiral Strauss. The resultant feud became one of the more notable in recent Washington history. It is accepted here that if Strauss had been nominated to a new term as chairman of the AEC, he would not have been confirmed.

Anderson says that it was Strauss' testimony before the Commerce committee, indicating to him that Strauss had not changed his spots, that made him determined to testify. Until that time, Estes Kefauver and Eugene McCarthy had been the only senators to take the stand against the Strauss nomination. Anderson, as Republican members of the committee admit, made a telling witness.

☆ ☆ ☆

Kefauver charged that Strauss' responsibilities in the Dixon-Yates contract had never been explained. He said that Strauss had been the principal promoter of a contract which the government is now claiming was void because of a conflict of interest.

McCarthy testified that on the record Strauss had been arrogant and contemptuous of the will of Congress. Anderson declared that Admiral Strauss had been untruthful, even in dealing with the committee, whose job it was to pass on his confirmation.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Communism Still The Same

GENEVA — The almost insuperable obstacles in the way of any real discussion —any meaningful meeting of minds — could hardly have been better demonstrated than in the tragicomic confusion in which this conference has begun.

The West fully expected that the Soviets would try to make the Germans full partners in the conference; that they would haggle and higgle for several days over the status of the delegations from the two Germanys. But that they would insist at the outset that the conference should from the first day convert itself from a four-power meeting into a six-power meeting gave the West a shock. Had they not agreed, or seemed to agree, that the East and West Germans should come as advisers to be consulted when called upon?

For their part the Russians seem to have been amazed at the reaction in the West to their opening gambit. They called a hurried meeting of correspondents representing the Communist press of the world to say that they had not meant to create any such reaction at all and that having made the pitch for the East Germans they fully expected to carry on with the four around a table that might be round or square and its shape was of no great importance in any event.

The two sides are speaking two different languages. It is not merely that Russian is a language alien to the West, with an alphabet entirely different from that of English and French. Interpreters are able to solve that minor difference. But the two languages are profoundly alien in that they derive from utterly different ways of life.

Words that seem to mean the same thing in Russian and English convey something quite different, and the West is forever being surprised that the Russians have apparently deliberately distorted the meaning of plain English. This has happened in conference after conference and it promises to repeat itself here. If there were no other reason to believe that anything like an understanding will take not months but years it is this barrier of language that cannot be bridged by interpretation and translation.

What becomes apparent as Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko presents himself in his familiar role as the great stone face is that, while in some respects the outer surface has changed, the hard core of Communist policy remains as solid as ever. What with Van Cliburn, the Bolshoi Ballet and the stir over the "cultural exchanges," there had been those in the West who wanted to believe that Moscow was in the process of transformation.

☆ ☆ ☆

The first warning came with Premier Khrushchev's threat of the eight hydrogen bombs to reduce West Germany to nothing and another eight to dispose of the rest of Europe. This had an ominous and familiar ring, recalling the fearful days after the Suez attack when the Soviets' remarkably blunt letters to Paris and London threatened to rain down rockets on those cities. The Russian response, of course, is that this is no more than the West is doing by proclaiming the placing of nuclear rockets in Italy and other NATO countries.

In short, the conference opens with the cold war going full blast and Gromyko's opening move appears as no more than a cold war tactic transferred to the conference room. But this does not mean that the conference is bound to end in failure or disaster.

On the contrary, tactics to one side, the prospect despite the snafu at the start is for the limited agreement that will make a summit conference possible. Self-interest on both sides of the table compels the East and the West to at least a modest attempt at agreement on the most obvious issues, such as Berlin.

Chancellor Adenauer in his stubborn determination to make the Russians pay the highest possible price for a summit conference may exaggerate the Russian self-interest — the need to relieve the intolerable severity and harshness of Soviet life, to make the promise of a higher standard of living, at least partly true. In the popular desire to end the armaments burden and ease the long tension and self-interest of the West has some resemblance to Soviet motivations.

☆ ☆ ☆

There is one conspicuous advantage at the start of this conference over past meetings of this kind. The public has been educated to expect not the millenium but at best only a small start on the long and painful road toward competitive and peaceful co-existence. Gromyko at the start, simply by being the old familiar Gromyko at the end of a telephone line from Moscow, may have helped to harden the skepticism and thus he may have performed a useful service.

The choice is not between the millenium and despair. It is a choice between steady, patient negotiation through an interminable future and the awful peril of letting the cold war rage unchecked.

BOB CONSIDINE

Name Young Offenders, Hoover Says

J. Edgar Hoover rules over a Federal Bureau of Investigation which now numbers 14,000 employes, 6,500 of them agents in various grades. When he was made bureau director 35 years ago, the total employment was less than 1,000.

The FBI now operates not only in the 50 states but in Madrid, Rome, Bonn, Paris, London, Ottawa, Havana, Mexico City, Rio de Janiero and Tokyo. It is not in conflict with Allen Dulles' Central Intelligence Agency overseas but, because Congress has piled many duties on it through the years, has sufficient work. For example, it tracks down U.S. mobsters on the lam, puts the finger on international crooks, keeps an eye on the sources of illicit goods, including dope.

Hoover

Hoover himself is internationally minded.

"We don't send an FBI agent with every American tourist group. I wish it were possible for an unmonitored Soviet group to tour here. They'd certainly have their eyes opened."

☆ ☆ ☆

He is pessimistic about any real coexistence with Communism.

"We have enough warning lights flashing at us to show us what happens when we lower our standards, bend on principles. Take our adult delinquency, which accepts political corruption and other disgraces. Out of that has come a breakdown in discipline, the decline or collapse of the authority of the head of the family.

"When I was a kid . . . well, we didn't hear words like 'misguided,' and 'disturbed youth,' and so forth. We should eliminate a lot of those words and excuses today and face up to the fact that the average juvenile delinquent is nothing but a young criminal and should be treated as such.

"They should be publicly named in the newspapers and on the air. The first protection of society is punishment, not rehabilitation, not the country club-like reformatory, but the penal institution. I'm sick of our 'bleeding hearts,' and 'sob sisters,' and the maladministration of the parole system. A parolee shot and killed an FBI agent not too long ago and it makes my blood boil every time I think of it.

"Many paroled sex criminals commit further sex crimes. I say pinpoint the judge or the board that turned these people loose. We hear entirely too much these days about the rights of defendants. What about the rights of society? They should be equal."

Hoover made it plain that his indignation was not to be classed as a generality.

"From 90 to 96 per cent of our youngsters are wholesome. But the bad ones are still a serious matter. Some day they'll be parents."

☆ ☆ ☆

He believes the churches can do more about the problem.

"Kids go to church these days in great numbers but I think a lot of them are missing the great truths dispensed there because the clergy speaks to them in the tones of a mortician. We need more virile he-men in the pulpit — men like Cardinal Cushing, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and the late Rabbi Liebman. Youth won't listen to dull preaching, and youth is the real hope of the United States."

We asked the director why crime rates were going up despite the growing efficiency and spread of the FBI and other law-enforcement bodies.

"More people, more crime," he said. "That, plus the turmoil and violence of today's kind of living, the disregard of principles, the break-up of so many families by divorce, nepotism, scandal and corruption in high places.

"And add to that the refusal of parents and teachers to land hard on, say, a boy who steals as little as a penny. He's only practicing for the day when he can rob a bank. World War II broke many homes because of the greed of wives for more money. So many newspaper headlines deal with violence. Nobody reads the calm editorial page.

"There were 100 murders performed on television during a recent weekend of shows in Washington. There's too much drinking in the presence of children, too many trashy movies. I remember a fellow said to me, after seeing Tyrone Power in 'Jesse James,' that Jesse wasn't a bad fellow after all.

"'Wasn't a bad fellow,' I yelled. 'Why he was one of the worst scoundrels who ever lived.' Why don't we have more pictures like Bing Crosby's 'Going My Way,' or the C. B. DeMille films? They don't lose money for the producers.

"Let's get back to the fundamentals, including the fundamental of learning how to spell. The kid today is permitted to leave school without the faintest idea about spelling. Let's stop debunking our national heroes in the college text books. Let's face up to the fact that it is preposterous to give credits for such things as dancing and beauty courses.

"Name the juvenile delinquents," he repeated. "Every place where they've been publicly named there has been an attendant drop in the delinquency rate. You're entitled to know if some kid in the neighborhood is a sex pervert, aren't you? Reporters should not be barred from courts or boards trying juvenile delinquents. Naturally, the press would be its own censor in the handling of such stories, but let's not neglect turning the light on the situation as whole."

County OKs Applying Again For City-County Planning Study Funds

The County Board Tuesday authorized a new application for federal matching funds with which to make a comprehensive planning study for Lincoln and Lancaster County.

Planning Engineer Douglas Brogden told the board that the application must be made before next Monday or available federal funds will lapse.

The City Council has not yet approved the joint application, but Brogden said a special Council meeting probably will have to be called yet this week.

The City-County Planning Commission is seeking federal matching funds for a proposed $42,000 study to update Lincoln's comprehensive plan and to evolve a plan for the county.

Cost Split

Approximately $31,000 of the study will be charged against the city while the county will pay $11,000. Both contributions would be half the amount if federal matching funds are obtained.

Approximately $31,750 would be paid to Harland Bartholomew & Associates for the study, while $10,375 is allocated to expenses of the city-county planning staff.

In other action, the board wrestled with two problems of trailers on unlicensed premises.

Harold D. Griffin said his trailer has been located at 1025 West Q since 1954 and has approved water and sewage facilities.

Could Apply

Board Chairman Rollin Bailey expressed the opinion that the county's 1955 trailer court regulations could be made to apply to a prior situation.

However, a question of trailer court regulations in existence since 1942 came up in connection with the second trailer unit.

Warren Jacobson, operator of a Woodlawn filling station and cafe, said he bought in July, 1956, a trailer that had been at present location for over 5 years.

Bailey said both trailer matters would be given further study by the commissioners with their legal counsel.

The Board received the application of Rainbow Minature Golf Course Inc. for an amusement license at 25th and Cornhusker Hwy.

Wedding Moved Up

Hollywood (AP)—Actor Nick Adams and actress Carol Nugent were married Sunday in Las Vegas, Nev., her mother said Tuesday. The two had planned a big wedding later, but Adams recently made a deal for a television series which required moving up the wedding date.

Bingo Regulation Would Use 3 More Inspectors

State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan is guessing that 3 additional inspectors will be all his department needs if bingo is added to its inspection duties.

The new bingo bill introduced at the request of Gov. Ralph Brooks would place bingo regulation responsibility with the Department of Agriculture and Inspection.

The bill will be heard by the Government Committee next week.

Finigan said no additional supervisory personnel would be necessary if his agency is handed the bingo inspection responsibility.

Inspection would be undertaken by the Bureau of Dairies, Foods, Weights and Measures. Its chief, Gould B. Flagg, would be in charge of bingo regulation.

The Bureau presently emplys 28 inspectors in its many inspection duties.

It inspects food manufacturing and distributing establishments, hotels, restaurants, cold storage and locker plants, egg buying and processing plants, dairies and dairy manufacturing establishments.

Enforces Laws

The Bureau enforces the laws concerning all the subjects under its supervision and, in addition, makes chemical and physical analysis of foods, paints, feeds, fertilizers and livestock remedies.

It also administers the law which requires that every commercially used scale, pump and measure in the state must be inspected at least once each year.

Finigan noted that an additional 3 inspectors is "just a guess." However, he said, he will continue to study the matter so as to be prepared in the event that the Legislature hands his department the responsibility.

School Bonds Score Win At Fairbury

Lincoln Star Special

Fairbury—Fairbury voters Tuesday strongly approved a bond issue to finance construction of 3 new grade schools.

The vote on the $595,000 issue was 1,675 for, and 648 against. To permit the construction, approval by at least 55% of those voting was required. The actual ratio was about 72%.

Approved were two new grade schools to replace structures which will be torn down, plus a third grade school which would permit conversion of a present grade school into a junior high school.

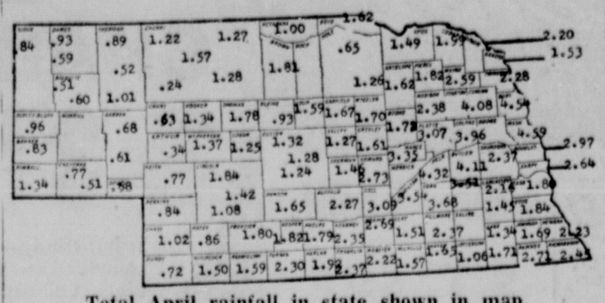
Less Than 5% Corn Planted; Rains Help East, Northeast

Generous rains over most of Nebraska last week halted fieldwork, stopping corn planting which was just getting under way, according to the weekly crop report issued Tuesday.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics report said the moisture relieved dry surface soil conditions which were developing in some eastern and northeastern counties. The report said the rains were a boon to the Platte River counties and in the northeast where rainfall has been below normal since last fall.

Some sections of the Sandhills and the southwest part of the state received only light rains and still need a good rain.



Total April rainfall in state shown in map.

Corn planting began at the first of last week but less than 5% of the crop has been planted. Usually over 10% has been planted by May 10. At the end of the week corn planting was 4 days behind schedule.

Winter wheat made excellent progress during the week. In some southern counties it reached the jointing stage with some fields 15 to 18 inches high. Spring grains made marked progress although cool weather continued to make some delay in growth.

Pastures picked up a little during the week, but are mostly slow due to the cool weather this season. Alfalfa and wild hay prospects showed a gain last week, but are still behind in development.

Rainfall during the past week over the state included:

$100,000 Water Bond Issue Planned

Scottsbluff, Neb. (AP) — The Scottsbluff City Council will submit a special bond issue to the voters for an estimated $100,000 water improvement program designed primarily to serve the needs of a new industrial tract east of the city.

The plans call for laying about 1,500 feet of 12 inch main and erection of a 250,000 gallon overhead storage tank. The line would run to a point adjacent to the tract where industrial users could tap it.

The Magnolia Mobile Homes Co. is building a plant on the tract.

EXTRAS PAY FOR ENCYCLOPEDIAS

Take a long, hard look at "free" encyclopedia offers.

Every year thousands of Americans contact BBBs on encyclopedia deals. The prospective buyer, the deal goes, was "specially selected" for an unusual offer. If he will buy, at "regular prices, such side features as reference books, year books, children's books, dictionaries or research services, the encyclopedias will be given free. Sometimes "special" prices are offered for testimonial letters supposedly for use as advertising.

The prices on side features have been found sufficiently high to cover encyclopedias, also.

The important points about encyclopedais are quality of the articles and reputation of authors.

King Baudouin Warmly Applauded At A Joint Session Of Congress

Washington (AP) — King Baudouin of the Belgians spoke to a joint session of Congress, drawing heavy applause and warm praise for his message from the old world to the new.

King Baudouin

The 28-year-old monarch, in his second day of an extended visit to the United States, held his audience from the beginning, when he said:

"I who am a young man come from a country old enough to have been spoken of proudly by Julius Caesar,

"I come to a country which for centuries God kept hidden behind a veil until its appointed hour when it took into its young arms, the people of the old world . . .

"I rejoice in the honor given to me by this assembly, an honor which deeply moves the hearts of the Belgian people."

The grave, slender king, wearing the uniform of an Army general with a single decoration, was interrupted frequently by applause during his 13-minute address. He spoke English with hardly an accent.

He repeated the gratitude of the Belgians for American help in times past, noted similarities between the two countries, struck at Communism as a new imperialism which "seeks the mastery of intellects," and said the peace within human hearts everywhere "is the greatest guarantee of peace in the world."

He concluded with these words:

"Where better can the free people of the world look for the averting of war and death, than to your nation so vibrant with the love of life . . .

"Not only I, but all the youths of my country most willingly adhere to your reverence for life. Nor shall our confidence in you be misplaced, for what is written on your coins, I have read in the hearts of the American people: 'In God We Trust.'"

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said he had listened to memorable speeches by Sir Winston Churchill and others, but Baudouin's "was one of the most outstanding messages ever given to a joint session of Congress."

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) called the speech "one of the finest, if not the finest, messages a joint session of Congress has ever been privileged to listen to."

Vanguard I Photographed 25,000 Miles Out In Space

Washington (AP)—America's Vanguard I earth satellite has been photographed 25,000 miles out in space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency said the picture was made from the Smithsonian optical tracking station at Woomera, Australia.

It compared the feat with photographing a golf ball 600 miles away from the camera.

"No other object as small as this 6-inch sphere ever has been photographed from such a distance," a NASA anouncement reported.

The space agency said a Baker-Nunn precision satellite tracking camera was used by personnel at the Woomera missile range to photograph the earth satellite on 3 occasions—May 1, 3 and 4.

The tracking camera is one of 12 located around the world and especially designed for tracking earth satellites during the international geophysical year.

The Vanguard I, developed by the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory, was launched March 17, 1958. It has a perigee—low point—of 402 miles and an apogee—high point—of 25,000 miles.

The Vanguard is orbiting the earth 76 times a week and next week will have completed 4,950 orbits since it was launched.

Legislature Asked To Support Area Conservation Lab

Nebraska's Legislature was asked Tuesday to lend its support to the proposed establishment of a government laboratory, somewhere in the Great Plains states, to do research in soil and water conservation.

A resolution, No. 34, to put the Legislature "wholeheartedly" on record for the project, was introduced by Sen. Hans O. Jensen of Aurora, chairman of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee.

Bills are pending in Congress for establishment of such a laboratory in the Great Plains area, the resolution noted.

It called attention to "a tremendous need" for additional research in soil and water conservation, with a view to stabilizing the economy of an area "ravaged by drought, dust storms and floods."

The laboratory has been recommended by the Great Plains Agricultural Council, the National Assn. of Soil conservation Districts, and a soil and water research facility committee appointed by Agriculture Secretary Benson.

Morrison Named To CPPD Board

Housewife Tells Of Seeing 'Ball Of Fire' That Carried 31 Persons To Death

Baltimore (AP)—"There was a big explosion and we looked outside and saw this ball of fire falling."

Mrs. Walter Bevans Jr., 26, gave this description of the mid-air explosion of the Capital Viscount plane in which 31 persons were killed late Tuesday.

Mrs. Bevans said she was preparing dinner at the time for her husband, a 29-year-old contracting firm employe, and her 70-year-old father-in-law, Walter Bevans Sr.

They live in a thinly populated section of Baltimore's eastern outskirts.

"My father-in-law ran out, then came back part ways and hollered, 'call the Fire Department! The field's on fire'," said the young housewife.

Saw Bodies

"Then he went back and saw some of the dead people near the road and ran back again and hollered for me to call the ambulances, too."

The Bevans home is about 30 yards off the road along which some bits of wreckage and bodies were found. One big piece of the explosion racked airliner, apparently the rear piece of the fuselage and baggage compartment, was found unburned just off the road, about 25 yards from the dwelling.

The elder Bevans said he looked outdoors immediately after hearing "this awful explosion" and saw the biggest section of the wreckage—the main part of the fuselage and part of a wing—fall in flame.

"It was just one big, terrible fireball," he said, "and it came straight down in that field across the road."

Mass of Metal

The section, from beneath which the last body was removed, was a charred, flattened mass of metal. It lay about 100 yards off the road, nearly dead center in a freshly plowed, muddy field bounded on two sides by patches of woodland and on the other sides by the main road and a dirt farm road.

Police and firemen roped off the main wreckage section. They were assisted by volunteers as they lifted part of it for the removal of the last body in the glare of searchlights and sparkling red flares. This was done at 8:45 p.m., just 3 hours and 32 minutes after the tragedy.

Government and airline investigators, seeking the cause of the mysterious explosion, already were poking about the mile-wide area over which parts of the destroyed craft were scattered.

Injured Airline Passenger Had Planned A Later Flight

Charleston, W.Va. (AP) — "I could have been on a later plane," said O. L. Dickenson, of Atlanta, as he shakenly downed a drink of ice water at Charleston General Hospital's emergency room.

"I had a reservation on the 8:15 jet," he continued as he wiped mud from a sleeve of his ruined shirt. "But I finished work early, so I changed my reservation . . ."

Dickenson was one of the 41 persons aboard Capital Airlines Flight 983 bound for Atlanta. The big Constellation crashed and burned at Kanawha Airport Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. A. F. Susen, of Pittsburgh, was en route to Charleston to address a meeting of the Kanawha Medical Society. "Tell them I'll be a little late," he joked nervously. "Tell them not to hold up the dinner."

Minor Injuries

Both men escaped with minor injuries. About a dozen of the walking wounded were gently herded into the green-tiled examination room at the hospital while attendants made hurried checks on injuries, took down names of relatives and other pertinent data.

"That tall hostess, she was the one," chattered one ashen-faced passenger. "If it hadn't been for her . . . we would have all burned."

Dr. Susen and other passengers hurriedly agreed. "There was no panic," the Pittsburgh physician said. "Just as soon as the plane stopped sliding someone yelled: 'Take it easy now . . . Go slowly and we'll get out!' I remember when the fuel tanks let go, I looked back and the stewardess was standing there at the door. She stood there and calmly helped the rest of them out . . . The plane was burning."

Mom, 8-Months-Old Tot Survive

Charleston, W.Va. (AP) —Survivors of a Capital Airlines mishap included an 8-months-old girl and her mother who were en route from Pittsburgh to their home in Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Arthur C. Eaton said that her daughter, Pamela Sue, was asleep in a seat beside the mother when the plane went over an embankment at Kanawha Airport.

Mrs. Eaton, 27, said she grabbed her child to her but that some man, in turn, carried the then crying child from the wreckage.

Mrs. Eaton was unable immediately to loosen her safety belt, but managed to make her way out of the plane after another male passenger came to her assistance.

The blonde, attractive mother could remember little of the crash, except that "I just heard a stewardess saying 'not to shove but take it slowly.'"

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Senators Advance Deaf School Transfer Bill After Long, Intense Session

By Betty Person

Seventy minutes of intense debate in the Legislature Tuesday resulted in first-round approval of a bill to transfer jurisdiction of the Nebraska School for the Deaf from the Board of Control to the Department of Education.

A motion by Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City to kill the bill, LB279, introduced by Sen. George Syas of Omaha, was defeated on a 19-22 vote. The bill was then advanced from general file on a voice vote.

Fourteen senators debated the measure, also frequently touching on companion bill LB281 which would transfer the School for the Blind from the Board of Control to the Education Department, before the vote was taken on LB279.

Both bills have created considerable controversy, particularly among parents of children at both schools, some of whom favor the transfer and others who vigorously oppose it.

Great Division

Referring to the "great division among the thinking of all people, including parents and supervisors of the schools," Sen. Bridenbaugh said it was "this indecision among many people" which prompted him to oppose the two bills and call for a two-year study before any "drastic" change is made.

Declaring his "sympathy with the parents of these unfortunate children," Bridenbaugh said he recognized the "emotional strain" under which the parents live, but urged that lawmakers "not allow ourselves to be moved by this sensational atmosphere."

The Dakota City senator reviewed the present program at the School for the Deaf and stated it takes into consideration the total needs of the pupils, not just their academic training.

He defended the Deaf School's educational program, stating it was under the supervision of certified teachers and that the Board of Control consults with the Department of Education on the academic program.

Public Opinion

Sen. Syas took sharp exception to the school's academic program outlined by Bridenbaugh, declaring, "I know it's otherwise. It's better than it was, but it's better because of public opinion."

Referring to a 1957-58 study made by parents of children at the school, Syas said they had found teachers were not certified at that time and that out-moded teaching methods were used.

The Omaha senator also charged that Deaf School Supt. J. W. Jackson is not certified.

"If there are shools," Syas declared, "then the Board of Control has no business running them."

He said the Legislature would have to "settle whether they (the two schools) are charitable, penal or mental institutions, and I say they emphatically are not."

Back Syas

Sens. Michael Russillo, William Moulton and Sam Klaver of Omaha, Otto Liebers of Lincoln, George Fulton of Beatrice and Edwin McHugh of Murdock joined Syas in favoring transfer of the schools.

Sens. H. K. Diers of Gresham, Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, A. A. Fenske of Sunol, Marvin Lautenschlager of Grand Island, Hans Jensen of Aurora and John Aufenkamp of Julian joined Bridenbaugh in opposition to the bill..

Sen. Russillo said a recent tour of the school convinced him that it was in "good shape physically," but that parents of the children "want them to be as normal as possible," and that "education brings normalcy." On those grounds, the Board of Education's authority should be broadened, he said.

Not Critical

Sen. Liebers said he was not critical of the Board of Control, but that the more he studies it "the more I'm convinced that transfer of the schools is good."

The name of Rep. Don McGinley, former state senator who conducted a 1955-56 legislative study of the Board of Control, frequently was brought into the debate. Opponents of the bills said McGinley favored a more thorough study of the schools before any change was made.

Sen. Moulton said he believed the "proof" McGinley had sought before any change was made had been evidenced by developments in the past two years. Moulton also declared the Board of Control "realized its inadequacies" when it recently hired (Dr. Vernon) Hungate to supervise the educational programs at the institutions.

Shelby Voters Approve New School

Lincoln Star Special

Shelby, Neb.—In the 6th time on the ballot, a bond issue for a new Shelby school building finally won approval Tuesday.

Voters cast 285 ballots in favor of the $300,000 proposal, and 180 against.

Tuesday's issue was the first stipulating the structure be constructed on the site of the old building, according to Supt. of Schools William Classen.

The building will provide quarters for high school and grade classes. A 55% majority was needed for approval.

Iron Horse Adds To Obstacles Plaguing Covered Wagons

Overton, Neb. (AP)—The trappings of civilization joined the weather to throw up new obstacles in the path of the little wagon train retracing the Oregon Trail as part of Oregon's statehood celebration.

Tuesday's trip from Kearney to Overton was hampered by the heavy traffic on U. S. 30 plus the fact that the shoulders of the highway were too muddy to support the lumbering covered wagons.

And when the centennial band made their noon-time stop they almost lost their horses and mules when a Union Pacific freight train roared by with its whistle blasting. The horses reared, but were unable to break loose from their tethers.

Stormy Night

Tuesday's traffic problems came on the heels of another buffeting from the weather which has plagued the travelers across Nebraska. The party went to bed under starlit skies Monday night, but were awakened in the middle of the night by wind, rain, and hail "as big as your thumb."

A highlight of Tuesday night's stop was a banquet in Lexington, Neb., home of Ray Roudebough, now of Drain, Ore. Roudebough and his 11-year-old daughter have been having many reunions with friends and relatives as the party moved nearer Lexington.

Lexington residents arranged to ferry the wagon train group into town in antique cars supplied by Lexington's Oregon Trail Antique Car Club. The Rev. Dwain Dunning is head of the organization.

Tuesday the party camped at the edge of Overton. Wednesday they will camp at the Jack Dillard farm near Darr, Neb.

The wagon train expects to reach North Platte by Saturday.

State's Main Cities Show 22% Growth

. . . Bellevue's Population Doubled Since '50

An estimate of population growth in 24 of Nebraska's major cities shows an increase of 22% since 1950, as compared with the state's growth in the same period of 10%.

"The swing to the cities can certainly be noted" in the population estimates, the May issue of Business in Nebraska, prepared by the University of Nebraska department of business research, said.

Bellevue has more than doubled its population since 1950, from 3,858 to the present estimated 8,419. "Kimball is also said to have grown a lot, but data are not available for it," the bulletin commented.

Used in the estimates include these indicators: school census, total vote in the last election and the number of births and of deaths among residents.

Leaving on Saturday for Victoria, B. C., will be Mrs. J. R. Seacrest and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer who will serve as delegates to the national convention of the Association of Junior Leagues of America which will be in progress next week.

Mrs. Seacrest (left) is the recently elected president of the Lincoln Junior League, and Mrs. Greer the newly elected vice-president.

The News Around Town

—Progress waits for no man—or woman, and we definitely want to be in the swim. So, we've been reading considerably recently and have discovered that the word travel is exceedingly popular

* * *

—"Have Gun, Will Travel (Richard Boone); "Have Dryper, Will Travel" (TV ad); "Have Suit, Will Travel" (Vogue) and on, on and on. We, too, have something, but we won't travel. In the interest of progress—

"Have News, Will Babble."

* * *

—But the travel theme enters the news picture this morning regardless. We have just learned that Mr. and Mrs. Clark Faulkner and Mrs. Lincoln Kilbourne arrived in Honolulu on Monday—and that they will be joined there a week hence by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osborn.

* * *

—Heard some news that will be of particular interest to Lincoln people. It concerns the late Bess Streeter Aldrich in whose literary glory Lincoln basked for many years. We understand that Mrs. Aldrich's publishers will have a new collection of writings by the late author on the book stands in the autumn. You may also like to know that Mrs. Aldrich's son, Robert Aldrich of Los Gatos, Calif., has been asked to do the foreword.

* * *

—Can't neglect our brides this ayem, and the one we have in mind is Miss Frances Jensen whose marriage to Arthur J. Weaver, III, will be solemnized at the Westminster Presbyterian Church on Thursday, June 18.

Last Saturday morning Mrs. Lee Stover honored Miss Jensen when she entertained at a brunch and a kitchen shower at her home.

* * *

—And while on the topic of past courtesies we'll catch up on Col. and Mrs. Felix Hardison who, as you know, soon will be leaving Lincoln to reside in Bozeman, Mont. Last Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Stebbins complimented Col. and Mrs. Hardison when they were host and hostess to a group of guests. Following an hors d'oeuvres party at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins entertained the group at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club.

* * *

—The final production for the Lincoln Community Playhouse season "The Reluctant Debutante" opens on Friday evening, May 15, and continues through May 24—with two dark nights Sunday and Monday May 17 and May 18. At the performance on May 24 Elsies will be presented to the best actress, the best actor, the best supporting actor and actress, the best production, and the best performance in a minor role.

As usual there will be intermission coffee in the lounge, and serving as hosts and hostesses during the run of the play will be Dr. and Mrs. B. L. Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Enslow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carper, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Devoe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Devoe, Mr. and Mrs. James Cady, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Reed, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. John Amsler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirkman, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schwartzkopf, Mr. and Mrs. James Kiel, Mr. and Mrs. Heber Waldron and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fowles.

SUBURBIA

COUNTRY CLUB MANOR

Understand that Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Luikart of Sioux City, Ia., will be in Lincoln this week end for a visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Luikart, Jr.

And word has it that while in Lincoln the Luikarts will be completing last minute preparations for heir trip to Europe this summer with Dr. and Mrs. Don Dysinger. The two couples will sail aboard the Ivernia from Montreal on June 4, and will return home early in September folowing a tour of southern Europe, England and Scotland.

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

Bachelor residences in the suburbs seem to be a coming thing. If you recall last month we introduced two young gentlemen who were making their home in Country Club Terrace, and this week, news of another bachelor establishment.

The newcomers at 3726 Dunn include Charles Swingle, Charles P. Meehan, Jerry V. Weiler and Larry Rose.

If you are an early riser and viewer of the Morning Show on television you may have recognized one of the frequently appearing guest performers as a Country Club Terrace resident, Mrs. Merle Brestel (or as she is known to TV audiencs, Kay Brestel).

Mrs. Brestel is the first to admit that she has had little vocal training. Singing in this case is just "doin' what comes naturally".

INDIAN VILLAGE

Hear that Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hoobler and their family will be moving from their home at 1617 Nemaha the latter part of May to a new home in our South Hills suburb. The new address for the family will be 4049 So. 17.

Dear Abby . . .

Enough Already

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a Shoe Repair Shop. When I was expecting our first baby he prayed every night for a boy. Well, I had a nine-pound boy and he almost went wild. He took shoe polish and wrote "IT'S A BOY!" all over the windows of his shop. He wanted to put an ad in the paper but I wouldn't let him. Now he wants me to go buy some of those birth announcements and send them to everybody we know but I say NO, it is like begging for a present. All our friends know we have a baby. Am I wrong or not?

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you feel that sending out birth announcements is like "begging for a present," don't do it. I think your husband has already done a pretty thorough job of advertising the happy occasion. Good luck!

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a son who is 24. He is going with a widow who is 48, (same age as I). He is really in love with her and there is nothing anyone can say or do to change his mind. I've tried introducing him to young folks but he always goes back to her. This has been going on for four years. She has children older than he is. He's met them and likes them very much. Our clergyman has talked to him and I have talked my heart out, but he still wants to marry her. How can I stop him from ruining his life?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: All the words in the world are useless against the power of physical attraction. You son is 3 times 7 and if he wants to "ruin" his life, you can't stop him.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: We know an old maid in a small town near here who has money to burn, but she is very homely. Her brother wrote to me and said she was getting on his nerves and he wished I knew of someone who could get interested in her. With all her money, it would be a pretty dirty trick to fix up a friend with this woman. If we say we don't know of anybody, can we offer an alternate way for this man to get his sister married off?

CITY FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: When a woman has money "to "burn — she can usually find her own "match". Suggest that she take a cruise.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who is 14 years old. I weigh 123 pounds and am 5 ft. 8. One of my problems is that I wear a size 13 shoe. My feet look big and when people ask me what size shoe I wear, I am ashamed to tell them the truth, so I say I wear size nine. Some girls looked in my shoe during gym and they found out I take size 13 and they started yelling around, "Sweet thirteen and never been kissed!" Abby, I feel so bad about this I hate to go to school. What should I do?

SIZE 13

DEAR SIZE 13: Try very, very hard (and this will take some excellent acting ability on your part) to laugh right along with the kids who are trying to be clowns at your expense. They will soon admire you for being such a good sport and the teasing will stop in a hurry.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed envelope.

"Hobbies Are Important," was the subject of the talk given by Roger V. Dickeson at the Tuesday evening meeting of Eastridge PTA. A highlight of the program was an exhibit of the pupils' hobbies in the school library.

Barry, arranging his miniature soldiers; Susan Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hart, holding part of her salt and pepper shaker collection; and Karen Holze, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. H. E. Bringing Up Baby®

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

When baby's babble shows signs of becoming intelligible, your role as speech teacher becomes an important one. At first baby will learn by imitation, with no idea of word meaning. Coos will be transformed into words more quickly if you avoid baby talk, enunciate clearly, repeat often. Later, you can teach word meanings by pointing to objects as you talk. Start with the familiar objects baby sees and uses every day.

P. S. A column-reading mother writes that her toddler learned the primary colors from Gerber Cereal boxes.

•

Toddlers and tykes alike go for Gerber High Protein Cereal because of its delicate, nut-like flavor and that famous, smooth Gerber texture. Mothers appreciate the extra nutritional advantages of Gerber High Protein Cereal. For it has a whopping 35% protein content . . . to help little bodies grow big and strong. Like the other Gerber Cereals, it's fortified with iron, calcium and B-vitamins . . . and specially cooked to insure digestibility.

•

Milk memo. From time to time, toddlers go through an anti-milk stage. You can often encourage a reluctant one to drink more milk if you serve it in a brightly-colored, amusing mug, or let him sip it through colored cellophane straws. Another suggestion: why not add a bit of Gerber Fruit occasionally for a nice flavor treat.

•

Toddlers and tykes alike dote on fruit, especially if it's a Gerber Strained or Junior Fruit. And why not? Gerber Fruits are brimming with the natural, sun-kissed goodness of the juiciest, most flavorful fruits to be found. All are heat-processed in the absence of air for high retention of nutritive values. 9 Strained varieties, 8 Junior choices, including the delicious new Junior Bananas with Pineapple. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Bethany Library Improvements OKd

The Lincoln Library Board Tuesday approved a proposal by Director Charles Dalrymple to make general improvements at the new Bethany Branch Library.

Dalrymple said as soon as funds become available the parking lot at the Bethany branch would be paved. In addition, fencing of certain areas would be provided as well as an air conditioner for the building. Estimated cost of the 3 projects would run from $1,000 to $1,500.

The Board also announced that it would look into the feasibility of leasing the old Bethany Library building and lot. The site has been up for sale at an asking price of $12,750. The cost of leasing the building per month would run around $125, said Dalrymple.

A report submitted to the Board indicated a part of the damage to the South Branch Library resulting from the auto which smashed into one of the walls.

Auto Damage

Included in the damage was the circulation desk base, card catalog, chairs, the ornamental globe, and a large plant along with some floor damage. In addition, a pillar and two large plate glass windows, plantings at the base of the window and some lawn damage was reported.

No estimate of the final cost was made. The furniture and the installing of a new world globe has already cost $275.00.

The report indicated that the Branch would be "substantially" repaired within the week or 10 days, excepting the stone pillar which is being shipped in to match the stone already on the building.

Present at Tuesday's meeting were George "Bus" Knight, Mrs. Edward Walt, Elwood Thompson, Hugh Thorne, representative of the city council, George Holyoke, Mrs. Arnott Folsom and Dalrymple.

Fire Marshal To Air Laws For Schools

...With Educators

The State Fire Marshal will confer with a committee representing school interests at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Capitol in an effort to reach an agreement on the new school fire safety rules.

Fire Marshal E. C. Iverson's rules requiring sprinkler or detection systems in certain areas by Sept. 1 drew criticism from school officials at a public hearing last week.

The deadline in particular was criticized by Dr. Harry A. Burke, superintendent of Omaha Schools, and others.

The committee, which had already expressed general approval of the rules but with certain reservations, was appointed by Donald F. Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska Education Assn., to work with the fire marshal. The chairman is Kenneth B. Clark, an architect.

It is composed of representatives of the Nebraska Assn. of School Administrators, American Institute of Architects, State School Boards Assn., Engineering Society, Inter-Diocesan Social Action Committee, State Normal Board, Board of Control, Department of Education, University of Nebraska, and small private colleges.

A second meeting is also scheduled for Friday.

Shakespeare Staged Inside By NU Cast

A University of Nebraska production of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," first planned as a Centennial performance drew heavy applause Tuesday night at the University's Howell Memorial Theater.

The performance was rained out twice during Centennial Week, and at the last moment Tuesday was moved indoors from the stage on the downtown mall.

Bonna Tebo played Katherine, the shrew, and James Baker, Petruchio, the gentleman from Verona who tamed her. Other members of the cast included Steve Schultz as Lucentio, Roy Willey as Tranio, Sally Wengert as Bianca, John Gerber as Baptista, Howard Martin as Gremio, Howard Martin as Hortensio, Francis Hamer as Biondello, John Erickson as Grumio, James MacDonald as Curtis, John Turner and Dave Pretty as servants to Petruchio, Lee Goodhart as the tailor, George Spelvin as Vincento and Madalyn Miroff as the widow.

Out Of Date

Miami, Fla. (UPI) — State trooper James Foster issued a ticket to Franklin S. Sampson for driving with an out-of-date license. Sampson produced a driver's permit, issued in Saudi Arabia, dated to expire in April, 1367. Saudi Arabia uses the Moslem calendar. Foster said he wants a court to decide the issue.

Progress Seen

Washington (AP) — Senate minority leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) said he believes Congress will move shortly to try to keep work progressing on the national superhighway system.

The administration has announced that the 2½ billion dollars scheduled to be allocated to the states for the network in July cannot be apportioned because the highway trust fund is starting to run a deficit. The federal government pays 90% of the cost of the interstate superhighway system.

Housing Project Fire At LAFB Still Unexplained

The cause of an estimated $18,000 fire which completely destroyed a partially built house Saturday night at Lincoln Air Force Base remained a mystery Tuesday.

V. W. Germain, arson investigator for the State Fire Marshal's office, reported the fire began in a corner of the basement. He could give no cause for the blaze but indicated that investigations would continue.

The house, located on Castle Place, was being built as part of the Capehart Housing project at the Base.

Germain said gas and electricity had not yet been installed.

Base firemen were hampered by muddy roads leading to the house.

RAY SIGNS FOR BASILIO FIGHT

Gets Assurances That NBA Will Return Title

Philadelphia (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, virtually assured that the National Boxing Assn. would return his middleweight title taken by edict May 4, Tuesday signed to defend that crown in Philadelphia against Carmen Basilio Sept. 21.

Dr. Ward Wylie, president of the NBA, advised that Robinson had signed for the title defense and had posted a $10,000 bond guaranteeing his appearance, asserted he would recommend the boxing board give Sugar Ray back his crown.

Wylie said at his Mullen, W. Va., home that he would poll the 15 member NBA executive board by telegraph and telephone immediately. He said he felt sure the board would go along with his recommendation.

"Our lifting of Robinson's title was meant to accomplish two purposes—to get him to sign for a defense, and to give Basilio the shot at the title he deserves. I think the signing accomplishes both purposes."

Robinson, at 39 one of the cleverest manipulators the fight game ever has known both inside and outside the ring, posted the $10,000 bond after signing a contract with promoter Sam Rose for 45 per cent of a predicted $750,000 to one million dollar gate. No money guarantee was made to the champion.

Rose, a Philadelphia city councilman whose only previous fight promotions bordered on financial disaster, still has to sign Basilio for the fight in this city's 100,000 seat Municipal Stadium. The councilman wasn't at the signing ceremony. He is ill in the hospital.

However, Robinson, attired in a natty powder blue suit, was on hand in Mayor Richardson Dilworth's reception room for the ceremonies. He sported a big smile as he waved the contract in the air and predicted a million dollar gate. Harold H. Salkind, city registration commissioner representing Rose, tempered that a bit with a $750,000 guess.

Robinson was careful to point out that the 45 per cent not include television receipts. He expects to negotiate a television deal himself. He didn't say how the TV melon would be cut up.

Basilio was not available immediately for comment.

Robinson was assured before signing by Al Klein, Pennsylvania State Athletic Commissioner and a member of the NBA executive committee that the boxing group would relent and give him back his title if he signed for the defense against Basilio.

Averill's Pinch Slam Tops Braves

Chicago (AP) — Earl Averill, who has been an in and outer with an anemic .171 batting average, Tuesday hit a pinch grand slam homer with two out in the 9th inning to give the Chicago Cubs a 7-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves.

Lew Burdette, seeking his 6th victory, had tamed the Cubs on 4 hits, including Tony Taylor's first homer in the 4th, until serving two gopher balls in the decisive 9th.

With one away, Walt Moryn blasted a homer to tie the score. Then Dale Long single Bobby Thomson did likewise and Lee Walls was given an intentional pass to load the sacks.

Sam Taylor forced Chick King, running for Long, at the plate keeping the bases filled. Then Averill—son of the former Cleveland outfielder by the same name—parked his 3rd homer on the left field catwalk.

Burdette, absorbing his second loss, had home run support to cushion his 3-2 lead entering the 9th.

Del Crandall clubbed his 3rd of the season into the left field stands in the second inning. Johnny Logan got his 3rd—and second in as many days—in the 4th over the left field wall. Eddie Mathews boosted his major league lead to 13 with a blast over the right field wall into the street in the 5th.

The Braves, ending a 3-game winning streak, bagged 9 hits in all, 7 off Bob Anderson in 8 innings. Don Elston finished, giving up wasted singles to Bill Bruton and Hank Aaron, to get the victory.

Class C Field Includes State's 'Glamour Boys'

By Al Beebe

Class C track and field championships Friday and Saturday at the NU Stadium will probably be a meet of the "glamour boys."

Several of the outstanding individuals in the state are entered in Class C, and one of them may win the state crown for his team.

Host Of Stars

These stars include Richard Faust of Atkinson St Joseph's, O'Neill St. Mary's Larry Tomlinson, Arapahoe's Allen Wengert, Earl Lliteras of Hemingford, Polk's Roger Merchant, Ted Widhalm of Norfolk Sacred Heart, Lawrence's John Beyke, and several others.

Widhalm and Faust are likely to draw the most spectator attention as they meet for the 3rd time this year in the mile run. Defending Gold Medal champ Faust has won both meetings by a stride, the latest in a fast 4:34.1 clocking.

Tomlinson and Beyke, plus Tom Fitzgerald of Alliance St. Agnes and Ron Hutchinson of Louisville have all been over the 50' mark in the shot put, while Robert Peterson, Alma, has hit 49-10½.

Records should topple in both of these events. The C mile record is 4:37.2 while the shot put target stands at 51-4½.

St. Mary's Threat

Tomlinson is one of the fellows who may bring his team a championship. He is also a leading contender in both hurdle races and the discus, plus running on the O'Neill St. Mary's 880 relay team which has the fastest time of the entries.

Wengert had the best district qualifying times in the 100 yard dash and the 440, and is also a broad jump threat, plus running on a good 880 relay squad.

Hemingford is a threat with Lliteras a possibility in both sprints. Merchant of Polk is a top candidate in the dashes and the broad jump, with Bruce Johnson also a 3-event Polk hope.

Mullen Top Qualifier

Mullen leads the field in qualifiers with 9, and is paced by high jumper Miles Humphrey, who may better the 6-1 Class C record. Ceresco, one of the high qualifying teams with 7, does not appear to have any high-point winners for strong title aspirations.

As in the other classes in this year's state meet, the 440 and 880 events should be tops. In addition to Wengert in the quartermile, top choices are Delbert Wyland of Hemingford, Dave Kindschuh of Axtell, and Mullen's Larry Sweet.

In the 880, Gary Peterson of Orleans is a slight favorite over Cambridge's Ken Hilton, Richard Vakoc of Battle Creek, Norfolk Sacred Heart's Bill Bruner, and Axtell's Delwin Gustafson.

Here is the State Class C rundown, listing number of qualifiers from each of the 95 teams, returning champions, Class C records, and district qualifying event leaders:

Yank Errors Boost Indians

. . . Cleveland Scores 7-6 Win

New York (AP)—Unbeaten right-hander Cal McLish gave way to heat and humidity after 7 innings, but won his 5th in a row Tuesday night as Cleveland's American League leading Indians defeated the New York Yankees 7-6 with the help of 4 unearned runs.

Rocky Colavita, Woody Held and Russ Nixon each drove in a pair of runs for the Indians, who had lost 3 in a row. Colavito had 4 of the Injuns' 11 hits, scoring their first run in the second inning with his 8th homer.

It was his 3rd of the year against the Yankees, who are 0-3 against Cleveland, and his second off loser Art Ditmar (1-2), who began a parade of 5 Yankee pitchers.

McLish, 4-0 against the Yankees in his short American League career, gave up 10 hits, including homers by Mickey Mantle, who socked an inside-the-park job, Elston Howard and Yogi Berra.

Rookie Jim Perry mopped up with perfect relief over the last two frames. The 22-year-old right-hander gave up one hit, fanned 4.

The Indians counted their last 4 runs on errors. They scored 5 in the 3rd inning, with two boots by Yankee shortstop Tony Kubek setting up 3 unearned runs after Held's two-run homer.

Cleveland's final run came in the fifth, which Colavito opened with his second double. Rocky was picked off by Bobby Shantz, the Yankee's 3rd pitcher, but Minnie Minoso, who had walked, stole second and went to 3rd on Berra's throwing error. George Strickland's sacrifice fly brought Minoso home with the clinching run.

Put Away The Kicking Tee

Husker football fans at All Sports Day got a preview of Bill Jennings' announced strategy for next fall after all 3 Varsity touchdowns.

The Scarlets went for the two-pointer instead of kicking for one.

During the Extra Point Club's breakfast honoring the press, radio and TV men, Jennings joked: "You may want to raise the membership fee to $2—we're going for two points after every touchdown."

He proved Saturday he was serious about the strategy.

After missing the first two-point try, the Varsity was in danger of being overtaken by the Alums. But when the Scarlets made good on the second try the monkey was on the Alums.

Going for the two points usually indicates that a coach feels his club can score frequently enough to offset a misfire or two.

Bill's proclamation evidently means he has confidence in the Husker offense. Certainly there's every reason to believe Nebraska will have more punch next fall—which falls under the category of good news.

Game conditions next fall may force Jennings to alter his spring strategy, however. So be charitable if the Huskers happen to kick an extra point now and then.

New Target

Extra point and field goal kicking will be quite a bit easier next fall.

While the Husker uprights weren't changed for the Alumni game, the goal posts next fall will be 24-feet wide instead of 18-6.

This will give the booters a good-sized target and should make field goal tries more frequent.

In a recent Kansas intra-squad game, John Suder—who kicked 3 field goals, two in one game as a soph—booted a trio of field goals through the new posts. One went 14 yards and the other two 16.

Suder says the most important part of field goal kicking is "to kick straight."

"You can kick 'em 40 yards and they won't do any good unless they are straight," he says.

Mitchell Leary

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell is somewhat leary of the widened goal posts and the field goal.

"With the widened goal posts, a field kicker is definitely more of a weapon now," Jack said. "But, this also can be a mental trap. If a team begins to rely on getting three points it has a tendency to lose offensive momentum inside field goal territory . . . There is the decision of what to do on 4th and 2 or 4th and 3. You can go for a field goal and you might have scored a touchdown or earned a first down which would lead to a touchdown."

I hope Nebraska can score enough touchdowns next fall so that decisions on field goals will be unnecessary and Bill Jennings won't have to change his strategy.

Ted Plays:

CHISOX WIN 4-3 IN 12TH

Boston (AP)—Chicago outfielder Al Smith socked a towering two-run homer off Boston relief pitcher Murray Wall in the 12th inning Tuesday night for a 4-3 victory. The blow that decided the 4 hour, 23 minute marathon spoiled the first 1959 Red Sox appearance of Ted Williams.

Smith, a .232 hitter entering the contest, had gone 0-for-4 before lofting a Wall offering which barely reached the screen atop the left field barrier. Earl Torgeson had walked just prior to the homer.

The home forces, down 4-2 before 22,012 Fenway Park fans, made a determined bid to catch up again off winner Rodolfo Arias after two were out in the bottom of the 12th. Jackie Jensen connected for his 8th homer and Dick Gernert reached on an error before Sammy White flied to left on a 3-2 pitch.

Williams, the 40-year-old defending American League batting titlist, made a surprise appearance as a starter. It was his first action with the club since a neck and shoulder ailment sidelined him in late March.

Dodgers Gain Tie For Lead

. . . McDevitt Throttles Phils

Los Angeles (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers pulled into a first place tie with Milwaukee Tuesday night by defeating Philadelphia, 3-1, behind the fine, 5-hit pitching of Danny McDevitt. It was the Dodgers' 4th straight victory.

McDevitt, a sometimes erratic lefthander, went the full 9 innings for the second time this year without walking a man. He had never done that in the majors before this season. He struck out 6.

The baby-faced southpaw also drove in the first Los Angeles run with a 5th inning single off loser Gene Conley. The Phils had walked Don Zimmer intentionally with Norm Larker on second base, to get at McDevitt.

Zimmer scored in the same inning when shortstop Joe Koppe booted Charlie Neal's grounder.

The Dodgers got their 3rd run in the 8th when Neal walked, took second on Wally Moon's sacrifice and came in on a single by Duke Snider off reliefer Jack Meyer.

The Phils got their run on Willie Jones' 7th homer, a 350-foot shot over the left field screen in the 8th.

The Dodgers and Braves now are tied with .600 percentages. The Dodgers have played 5 more games than the Braves and actually are a half game ahead of them, but this does not officially put Los Angeles ahead in the standings.

Sioux City (AP)—Last-place Fox Cities cracked home runs in 4 consecutive innings en route to a 12-7 Three-I League victory over Sioux City Tuesday night.

Chuck Weatherspoon hit two of the homers, added a single and walked twice. He drove in 6 runs and scored twice.

Carlos Pascual hit a two-run homer in the 3rd and Zorro Versalles did the same in the 4th. Weatherspoon's solo clout in the 5th broke a 5-5 tie and then he connected in the 6th with two on base.

A crowd of 383 saw Fox Cities belt 4 pitchers for 19 hits.

Chamberlain May Sign Warrior Contract Today

Philadelphia (AP) — Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, called a press conference for today presumably to announce the signing of Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain to a National Basketball Assn. contract.

Gottlieb's press representative, Harvey Pollack, declined to state the purpose of the conference intimating it could be the signing of Chamberlain, or perhaps naming of a new coach. Al Cervi resigned as Warriors' coach at the end of last season.

Gottlieb, however, has been conferring with Chamberlain, former Kansas University All-America and last season the feature attraction of the Harlem Globetrotters. The 7-foot plus Chamberlain said last week he expected to sign with the Warriors momentarily.

Gottlieb leaves Saturday for a tour of Europe with the Trotters.

Killebrew Pokes Rip Tigers 7-4

Washington (AP)—The American League's newest slugging sensation, Harmon Killebrew, blasted across 5 runs with a pair of homers as he led Washington to a come-from-behind 7-4 victory over Detroit Tuesday night before 4,234 fans.

Killebrew, 22-year old husky from Payette, Idaho, brought his league-leading home run total to 12. He also leads in runs batted in with 28 and runs with 26. This was the 4th time in the last 12 games that Killebrew has homered twice in one contest, 3 of those occasions being against Detroit.

Frank Lary took a 3-0 Detroit lead into the 6th inning when Killebrew began his cannonading. Albie Pearson led off with a single and came home as Bob Allison doubled. One pitch after Lary brushed him back with a high inside fast ball, Killebrew powered a 420-foot homer into the left-center field bleachers to tie the score.

After a single by Harvey Kuenn and a double by Lou Berberet had nudged the Tigers back into a 4-3 lead in the top of the 7th, Killebrew climaxed a 4-run Washington comeback in the bottom of the same inning.

Cardinals Pound Out 7-4 Victory

St. Louis (AP)—The Cardinals pounded 4 Cincinnati Redleg pitchers for 12 hits Tuesday night, including 3 home runs, as they defeated Cincinnati 7-4. Cardinal starter and winner Gary Blaylock hit one of the homers, a two run blast.

Blaylock pitched excellent ball for 5 innings, issuing only 3 scattered hits, walking one man and holding the Redlegs scoreless.

But he began falling apart in the 6th and permitted two runs in that inning and two more in the next.

Bucs Trim Giants With 3-Run 12th

San Francisco (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates hopped on Giant relief pitching Tuesday for 3 runs in the 12th to beat San Francisco 6-5 in a hectic National League cliff-hanger.

The Giants almost tied it in their half of the 12th on a comedy of Pirate errors but winner Bennie Daniels finally got Daryl Spencer to pop out to end the 3 hour, 51 minute game.

Pittsburgh got 16 hits and used 16 players. Eighteen Giants, including 6 pitchers, saw action. They got 11 hits.

The Pirates picked up their winning margin when Dick Stuart doubled and scored on Bill Mazeroski's 3rd single. A single by Dick Groat and a walk to Daniels brought home Mazeroski.

Dom Zanni came on and walked Ramon Mejias and gave up a single to Roberto Clemente which brought in Groat with what proved to be the winning run.

In the Giant 12th, Jim Davenport led off with a single and went to second on Clemente's wild throw. Willie Mays singled to right and Davenport scored on Clemente's second error.

Mays came home when 3rd baseman Don Hoak threw Orlando Cepeda's ground ball into the first base dugout.

Indianapolis (AP)—Rex Easton, 45, Springfield, Ill., escaped injury Tuesday when his race car spun and skidded 783 feet at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The car stopped against the innerwall at the northwest turn in the exact spot where Keith Andrews was killed in a practice run two years ago.

Five other cars barely missed Easton's out-of-control racer.

Earl Motter of Fresno, Calif., kept his car under control a short time earlier when it threw a connecting rod.

Morehead Dealt For Cubs' Phillips

Philadelphia (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs Tuesday traded southpaw pitchers, Seth Morehead of the Phillies for Taylor Phillips of the Cubs.

The 25-year-old Phillips and the 24-year-old Morehead have posted identical 0-2 records so far this season. Phillips was 7-10 last year, while Morehead won 1 and lost 6 for the Phillies in 1958.

George Fletcher, Phillies' secretary, said in announcing the deal that "Morehead has shown signs of having the stuff to be a major league pitcher but he just couldn't win for us."

Pan-Am Action Started

Austin, Tex. (AP) —Baseball commissioner Ford Frick tossed out the first ball Tuesday night to officially open the Pan American Association.

Frick brought personal greetings from President Eisenhower, who said it was "a great occasion" to promote international good will.

Austin of the Texas League and Nuevo Laredo of the Mexican League played to mark the first time teams of two leagues competed in a game which counts in the standings.

Baseball leaders hope the inter-league play will inaugurate increased attendance and interest in the minor leagues.

"My best wishes for a complete success for this new venture," said Warren Giles, president of the National League. "I believe it will promote the fine relations which already exist between our country and Mexico."

A downtown parade began festivities. A buffet at the city's new auditorium was held in their honor and Secretary of State Zollie Steakley made "honorary Texans" of the baseball leaders and members of the Nuevo Laredo team.

Pre-game ceremonies were held in Spanish and English before a near-capacity crowd of more than 5,000.

Ed Doherty, president of the American Association got a rise out of the crowd, when he remarked to Texas League president Dick Butler:

"I don't represent the big leagues but I represent the biggest league in the country. I took 3 teams away from him (Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston) and I wish he had them back again. A 10 club league just doesn't balance."

DEMONS WIN 5TH IN ROW

Des Moines (AP)—Des Moines' Three-I League leaders staved off challenging Green Bay, 3-2, for their 5th straight victory Tuesday night as Ed Lunsford held Green Bay to 4 hits.

Des Moines broke a 2-2 tie in the 7th inning with two walks and Tom Morgan's single.

Green Bay was hitless until Bobby Parker led off the 5th with a single. A sacrifice and George Scott's single produced the game's first run.

Des Moines came back in the inning with a run on Lunsford's single and Paul Price's double.

In the 6th, Gus Sancimino put Green Bay in front with a single after a walk, fielder's choice and an error. Des Moines promptly tied it when John Simicich tripled and loser Don Kenway wild pitched him home.

The attendance was 829.

Charnley Upsets Willie Toweel

London (AP)—Dave Charnley, a 23-year-old southpaw, knocked out Willie Toweel of South Africa in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round fight for the British Empire lightweight championship.

It was a major surprise. Toweel, 25, was 4th ranked in the list of contenders for the world title held by Joe Brown of New Orleans and he held a 15-round decision over Charnley from the latter's challenge July 9, 1957.

Fremont Park Bill Advances

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee Tuesday approved and sent to the floor a bill which would designate the Fremont recreation area as a state park.

The committee also approved a bill to abolish the $1 recreation area use stamp currently in force in the state.

The Fremont Park Measure, LB106, was introduced by Sens. Ray Simmons of Fremont, Frank Nelson of O'Neill, Harold Stryker of Rising City, George Syas of Omaha, William Moulton of Omaha, J. O. Peck of Columbus, Peter Claussen of Leigh and Oliver Olinger of Tekamah.

The measure to abolish the recreation area windshield stamp, LB1, was introduced by Sens. David Tews of Norfolk and Stanley Portsche of Lincoln.

The bills, given public hearing earlier, had been held in committee awaiting the outcome of LB408, the bill to create a division of state parks in the Game Commission and levy a special tax to support state parks. The measure, calling for a .13 mill levy over a 10-year period, has now been passed.

The special tax levy replaces the recreation stamp revenue as well as the special park appropriations which the Legislature makes each two years.

Medicine Creek, Harlan Co. Crappie Fishing Hot

Excellent crappie fishing in Medicine Creek (Frontier) and Harlan County (Harlan) reservoirs earned the two impoundments "hot spot" rating in recent days, according to the 93-county creel census conducted by the Nebraska Game Commission.

Continuing rain and cool weather cut fishing pressure, but nevertheless there were some good catches reported, including lunker fish. During the past week the state's conservation officers checked 1,080 anglers who together caught 4,627 fish, a marked improvement over the previous 7 days when 1,200 fishermen combined efforts for 3,305 fish.

Crappie accounted for 61 per cent of the week's haul. At Harlan, Conservation Officer Bill Bonsall checked 89 anglers with an aggregate catch of 1,200 crappie. Officer Ed Greving checked 161 persons at Medicine Creek with 756 crappie.

Good crappie action was also reported at the Tri-County check (Dawson), south of Cozad, and Maloney Reservoir (Lincoln). White bass are also starting to hit at Maloney.

Most lunkers were coming out of the western reservoirs. Kenneth Leaney of Lexington led the assault on big fish with the season's largest walleye, a 10-pounder, at McConaughy Reservoir (Keith). He was fishing with an artificial. Five Garden City, Kans., anglers—John Oswald, Harry Oswald, Mark Jameson, F. C. Creigh, and Fred Brenaman, —caught 3 four-pound walleyes and one five-pounder, also at McConaughy.

Lauren Ellingston of Overton won a battle with an 8-pound northern in Johnson Reservoir (Dawson and Gusper). Spencer Hudson of Elwood, trolling with a plug, took a 7½-pound walleye from the same lake.

Whitney Reservoir (Dawes) continues to be one of the state's top producers. Larwin E. Cottrell of Crawford took a 6-pound, 27-inch catfish from that lake.

Trout fishing picked up in western Nebraska, with the White River (Sioux) the best spot. Berlyn Johnson of Crawford took a 2½-pound, 19-inch brown from that river, using minnows for bait.

Catfishing was fair in the eastern part of the state, with high waters keeping some anglers from many good spots. Lowell Arps and Clarence Mayhew, both of Fremont, caught a 12-pound blue cat on a set line in the Elkhorn River (Washington) south of Arlington.

Fishing was excellent in Alexandria State Lakes (Jefferson) with the large catches of trout, bass, crappie, and bullhead reported. One of the best catches there was a 3¼-pound, 23½-inch trout pulled in by Mrs. Virgil Jackson of Fairbury. Worms and minnows were working best at Alexandria.

Spearing carp in the flood waters of the Blue (Saline) and Turkey Creek (Saline) was also productive. The spearing season opened April 1 and continues to December 1.

One of the season's biggest bullhead was the 1-pound, 15-ounce bullhead taken by Rodney Baade of Bennett, from a farm pond south of Lincoln (Lancaster). Nine-year-old Linda Burger of Snyder, hauled a 24-inch carp out of the Elkhorn River, using a cane pole and worms.

Platte Valley To Open Sunday

Lincoln Star Special

Papillion—First action in the Platte Valley Baseball League for 1959 is scheduled Sunday, May 17.

Defending champion Papillion will make its first start at home when Gretna invades. The game matches two members of the South Division.

Treynor, Iowa, winner of the North Division last year, will be at home for a night game against Kennard.

Other opening day contests send Ralston to Elkhorn, Plattsmouth to Millard and Ashland to Arlington.

The 10 teams composing the state's oldest amateur baseball circuit will play 13-game schedules. Each club will meet rivals in its division twice and will play one game against each member of the other division.

Papillion, Ralston, Gretna, Millard and Plattsmouth are in the South Division. Treynor, Kennard, Ashland, Arlington and Elkhorn are the North Division members.

Lighted parks will be in use at five towns this summer. Ralston, Elkhorn and Ashland are using after-dark starting hours for the first time this year.

Pius X Will Construct Stadium For This Fall

Pius X High School will have a new 1,200-seat football stadium, expected to be ready for use by the opening 1959 football season in September.

Construction is to begin soon on pre-cast, pre-stressed concrete stadium on the Thunderbolt field. Bleachers currently in use will be moved to the west side of the field, and will make total seating capacity reach 2,000.

There will also be room to expand the stadium if necessary.

The project is sponsored by the Thunderbolt Athletic Club, with major financing to come from a season ticket drive.

Located below the stands will be a concession area, dressing rooms and storage facilities.

A glass enclosed press box will also be built on top of the stadium.

Missouri Will Forfeit Games

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—The University of Missouri Tuesday told the Big Eight conference that it wishes to forfeit 7 Big Eight Championship baseball games which it has won this season with Gene Orf, an ineligible outfielder, in the lineup.

The action would drop the Tigers from a 7-2 rank in second place to last place, 0-9.

Reaves Peters, conference commissioner had brought the question of Orf's ineligibility to the attention of Missouri's athletic director, Don Faurot, after checking the Missouri eligibility list which had previously been approved by the conference. He found Orf had earned only 22 hours of college credit during the last two semesters instead of the 24 required by Big Eight rules.

Nikita Links Optimism Over Geneva Meeting With New Threat For West

Moscow (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a speech printed in Pravda, coupled optimism over the big 4 foreign ministers conference in Geneva with a new threat of "inevitable disaster" for the West if it started a war.

In a speech made at Kiev, Khrushchev said:

"We have prepared everything so that our Minister of Foreign Affairs (Andrei) Gromyko, could achieve positive results in Geneva.

"The people are awaiting a thaw—They are waiting for a relaxation of international tension. The conference of ministers will be the first step in this matter.

'Improvement'

"I think that through joint efforts, we shall achieve an improvement in the situation."

But Khrushchev said that if the East-West conference failed to "yield great positive results," a meeting of the heads of government was "expected to be the next step."

Khrushchev said British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan favored a summit meeting, and added that President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle were in general agreement on it.

"Yet all these leaders have expressed themselves on this question cautiously," he said. "Because each one of them wishes to keep room to maneuver."

'Of Course'

Khrushchev said that "of course, not all the questions can be solved at a single meeting" and he added: "We want to solve all the controversial or unsolved problems without war."

But almost in the same breath, he issued a warning to the West:

"Certain foreign politicians, especially American military men, try to frighten us with the idea they can destroy us within several hours. But we can also scare them because we have something to scare them with.

"They try to frighten us because they are afraid of our successes —the imperialists are especially afraid of the success of the Soviet Union.

"Of course, the imperialists can cause our country considerable destruction. But our country is large and to destroy it in war is difficult.

"If the imperialist unleash a war, they will be threatened with inevitable disaster."

Highschoolers Report Success At Start Of Mall Petition Drive

Interest in establishing a permanent O Street mall, generated by two high school girls, gained momentum as O Street store employes and owners began to add their signatures to the cause.

Margaret Salstrand of 3131 So. 25th and Kathy Seyler of 2809 Woodsdale, both Lincoln Southeast High sophomores, started the petition drive among the schoolmates earlier this week, then moved to the downtown area Tuesday.

When they have enough names to be impressive, they plan to present the petitions to the City Council.

Volunteers who have joined the girls' cause include Lincoln High School students. Pius X, University, and Lincoln Northeast students are being contacted.

The students' petition asking the Council to "make careful study" and "take appropriate action" on establishment of a permanent downtown mall like that erected for Centennial Week, points to the "safety and convenience" as well as "the beauty" which a permanent "Prairiedise Mall" would bring to Lincoln citizens.

The girls admit that the impressive document took a little help from James Pittenger, University of Nebraska chancellor's assistant.

The girls plan to extend their signature drive to "all taxpayers or citizens" in their neighborhoods, and to downtown merchants with businesses off O Street.

They hope to wind up their drive and present their petitions to the Council before the Centennial mall is dismantled, which is expected to begin next Monday.

Hoagland Heads University Place Businessmen Unit

The group will install the new officers at its June 9 meeting which is also the annual Ladies Night.

Giant Nuclear-Powered Blimp Proposed By Goodyear Aircraft

Washington (UPI)—A giant, nuclear-powered blimp with almost limitless cruising range was proposed by Goodyear Aircraft Corp.

It would be the nation's first atom-powered flying machine and, according to Goodyear, could be aloft by 1963.

The proposed craft would be 3 times the size of the blimps now operated by the Navy—540 feet long and displacing 4,250,000 million cubic feet.

R. W. Richardson, Goodyear vice president, announced at the annual meeting of the Aviation Writers Association here that his firm recently told the Navy about the possibilities of such an aircraft and its practical applications.

Sentinel

He said it could be used as a sentinel to warn against submarine and air attacks, as do Navy blimps now.

The blimp would travel about 90 miles an hour at altitudes of about 10,000 feet.

It would be made of a new rubberized fabric —dacron coated with synthetic rubber —and would be able to withstand radiation of up to 100 million roentgens. A fatal dose for a person is 500 roentgens.

The proposed atomic blimp would boast an atomic reactor to drive its turbo-prop engines. A control car, 86-feet long, would be near the bow and in front of the engines. It would have two decks and accommodate a 24-man crew.

A-Airplane

Goodyear spokesmen said the ship would need only one-twentieth the power that a nuclear airplane would need.

Defense Department officials have said it would be premature at the moment to attempt building a nuclear-powered airplane.

The Goodyear officials said the big blimp would be able to take off and land on ordinary fuel and without using its nuclear reactor. Atomic power would only be used for cruising—making for the limitless range.

DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

"Baby's in the high chair. "Who put him there?

"Ma—Pa. Siz Boom Ba!

"Cavalier Varsity — Rah Rah Rah!"

We arrived home just in time to attend Parents Day at school—a very important function and I was given a lot of strict orders.

"Be there at 10:30 sharp. You are one of the skit directors."

"What is a skit director, my dear?"

"I am not sure. But all the fathers have to be SOMETHING. And I was afraid to sign you up for the fathers-daughters baseball."

And why, may I ask?" I said haughtily. "Why, I will never forget in the seventh inning at Shibe Park. Two out, two on base——."

"Father! Please!"

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, it was a lovely day. All the young ladies of Dominican were out on the green lawns under the trees. They wore their blue uniform dresses and were madly efficient.

"Sign in here, please," they said. "Oh, Mr. Snively, you are in the tree-climbing contest." (Mr. Snively looked like he could scarcely climb out of bed, let alone shinny up a tree. But twb girls had him by the arm and led him away. I imagine if he did not climb, they strung him up with a rope.)

"I am a skit director," I said firmly. "So if you will show me the skit, I will start the direction."

I had a picture of myself in puttees. Something like Cecil B. DeMille backing up for a long shot on Theda Bara in "The Vamp."

The girls said the skit directing was in the afternoon. So there was nothing to do but wander around and watch other fathers perform.

☆ ☆ ☆

It seems—and nobody tells me these things in advance—it seems we are in the Cavalier team. The other girls and their fathers are Roundheads.

I was there at 10:30 sharp. Executive as all get out. My child, however, was not in sight. She arrived about 11:30.

"Do you know how long I have been waiting?"

"No. What time is it?"

She is vague on time. But she got quite huffy when I taxed her with it. She explained that she was doing something very important — painting signs, was what she said. The signs were for something coming up a week from now and why they had to be painted today, I will never know.

However, she took me in hand and got me a splendid seat for the baseball game.

☆ ☆ ☆

The game was between Cavalier fathers and Roundhead fathers. And it was pitiful. I never saw so much fumbling and wild swings in the air. Some of the fathers suggested tartly that maybe I would like to substitute.

Most of them were panting —they don't keep themselves in very good condition.

But I said I could not do it. I was saving myself to direct skits. Brain work. In the meantime, we had cheers. We had fathers to lead cheers and daughters who prodded us if we did not cheer loudly enough. It was glorious.

☆ ☆ ☆

Then we had lunch. And our daughters sang "Our Hearts Belong to Daddy."

"Shouldn't I be working on the skit?" I hissed at my child. "Maybe I should act in it, too."

"Please!"

We then trooped in the gymnasium where some other panting fathers played volleyball. It looked strenuous.

The score was then announced. The Roundhead fathers whopped the Cavalier fathers by 51 points. We all groaned at this. But the Dominican Sister held up her hand. And what do you think!

It seems that the Cavalier fathers had won a compassionate prize for good sportsmanship! And it came to exactly 51 points! So it was a tie and shows you can't beat a Cavalier.

"What about the skit?" I whispered.

"Oh," said my daughter, "they decided to cancel that." I thought she looked quite relieved.

Unicam Asked To OK Roads Program Probe

The Legislature was asked Tuesday to authorize a broad investigation of the State Department of Roads and the State Highway Commission, and to appropriate $15,000 to pay the costs of the study.

Names affixed to the resolution, No. 35, included Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, William Skarda and John Munnelly of Omaha, Lewis Webb of Ogallala, John Aufenkamp of Julian, Michael Russillo of Omaha, Marvin Lautenschlager of Grand Island and Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud.

Under legislative rules, the resolution must be held one day before being acted upon.

Proposed is a study by a 5-member Legislative Council committee covering these subjects:

1. Contracts and the procedure for letting them.
2. Bonds of contracts and how the amount is fixed.
3. The procedure for letting of all contracts.
4. Selection and location of highways.
5. Efficiency rating of highway constructed and to be constructed in the future.
6. Condemnation procedure and manner of determing damages.

The resolution would authorize the study committee to utilize the services of the attorney general.

The resolution notes that the Department of Roads "is custodian of the state highway system with full authority in all departmental administrative details in all matters of engineering design, with the construction, operation and protection thereof," and the Highway Commission has advisory duties.

Few Top Issues Boost Averages

New York (AP)—A few high quality issues gained enough to give market averages a substantial rise Tuesday even though the stock market as a whole was highly irregular.

More stock fell than rose. Profit taking took a heavy toll among space age stocks and others which have had a good rise. In spite of this, the "market" as expressed by the averages was nicely higher.

Solid gains by Du Pont, Union Carbide, Chrysler and a number of leading rails gave the averages a freakish jump not reflected by the general behavior of the market.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were scattered among most major sections of the list. The electronics, rocket fuel and missile stocks suffered some sharp losses on profit taking. A few continued on the upside.

Volume slipped to 3,550,000 shares from 3,860,000 Monday.

Of 1,248 issues traded, losers outnumbered gainers by 513 to 499. There were 38 new lows for the year and 37 new highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.10 to $227.40 with the industrials up $1.50 to a record high, the rails up $1.60 and the utilities up 10 cents.

Rails staged a technical rally late in the day, giving important help to the averages. The pattern among steels, motors, coppers and drugs was mixed. Oils drifted to the downside.

Corporate bonds declined sharply in fairly active trading.

U.S. government bonds fell to new 1959 lows in light dealings.

Bond sales totaled $6,520,000 par value.

LATE FLURRY LIFTS WHEAT

Chicago (AP) — Profit takers turned corn and soybean futures prices back in late dealings Tuesday on the Board of Trade but wheat moved briskly ahead in a surprising flurry of bread support.

The liquidation of both corn and soybeans left almost all those contracts moderately lower than the previous closes and in some instances well down from the day's highs although none had advanced more than a major fraction at best.

The runup in all wheat deliveries was a surprise to many dealers who had said the Department of Agriculture estimate on 1959 winter wheat production could scarcely be anything but bearish. The government estimate of a 56½ million bushel winter crop yield was only 9½ million under the April figure.

At the close, wheat was ⅞-1¾ cents a bushel higher, May $1.89 ¾-⅞; corn ⅜ lower to ⅝ higher, May $1.25¾-⅞; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, May 67⅜; rye ¾ lower to 1½ higher, May $1.38½-¾, and soybeans unchanged to ⅝ lower, May $2.30⅜.

Demo Senators Hold Up Action On Dillon, Reid

Washington (AP)—Democratic senators held up action on two diplomatic appointments Tuesday in a caustic attack on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy and its alleged suppression of information.

Several democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee also got to squabbling among themselves at a hearing on the nominations of C. Douglas Dillon to be chief assistant to the secretary of state and Ogden R. Reid to be ambassador to Israel.

At Least A Week

The committee put off action on the nominations at least until next Tuesday.

Dillon and Reid thus became the latest Eisenhower appointees to get into hot water with Senate Democrats, although it appeared that Dillon at least was in no great danger of failing confirmation.

One battle ended recently with the resignation of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce just after she was confirmed as ambassador to Brazil.

There had been advance indications that the Foreign Relations Committee planned to take a close look at the diplomatic qualifications of Reid, a former president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

Highly Regarded

But the raking Dillon got was a surprise, because he always has rated highly among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said he would not vote to confirm Dillon because of what he termed foolhardy administration of foreign aid—Dillon's current responsibility. Long said it benefited thieves, racketeers and gangsters overseas.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) joined in, saying the State Department has no justification for keeping secret the country-by-country breakdown of military aid to Latin American and other foreign nations.

Lincoln Area Jobless Rolls Cut By 750

A spring upsurge in demand for workers in the Lincoln area has increased employment by 750, reflecting a national pattern.

Biggest gains were made in construction and agriculture. Total employment in construction fields exceeded last year's level by 500 workers. Service industries added 150 with renewal of out-of-doors recreational activities.

Preliminary estimates pointed to an unemployment gain of some 1,100 workers during the past 30 days compared with a gain of only 650 during the same period last year.

The only decline reported was in manufacturing where an employment drop of 100 occurred.

Renewed labor demand in Saline and Seward Counties was reported. Farm demand is reported up 30% with some openings still unfilled.

$3.4 Million Tax From Insurance Is Apportioned

Half the annual 2% insurance premium tax of $3,413,897 has been distributed to Nebraska's 93 counties and half to the state general fund.

The state's share of the tax levied on gross annual premiums was $1,706,948.

The remainder was distributed to counties on the basis of their 1950 populations.

Ten per cent of the money going to a county goes into its general fund, 60% to its schools and 30% to its cities and villages.

Douglas County received the biggest bite of the counties' share, taking in $361,888. Lancaster County was second with $154,199.

The smallest share went to Arthur County. It received $1,034.

Tax Levy Bill For Ag Study Moves Ahead

The Legislature will be asked soon to accept a bill which would levy a special property tax of one-tenth mill for the next 10 years, thus providing revenue for research into new uses for agricultural products.

The Unicameral's Agriculture Committee voted Tuesday to introduce such a measure.

Sen. Hans O. Jensen of Aurora, committee chairman, said he would like Nebraska "to be in the lead on this research work."

The federal government is about to accelerate its activity in this field, Jensen noted.

"I'm hoping by this gesture to indicate to the federal government this state's need and interest in this area," he declared.

The special levy, amounting to 10 cents on each $1,000 of assessed valuation, would yield an estimated $400,000 a year.

"Industry has spent millions to our thousands" in research, Jensen observed.

"Nebraska is primarily an agricultural state. Everything else depends on the welfare of agriculture. As farmers go, so goes Nebraska.

"Most of our research in the past has been designed to increase production. The need now is for research to find new uses for the terrific variety of things produced on Nebraska farms."

Bill To Set Up Retarded-Child Aid Fund OKd

The Education Committee agreed Tuesday to seek introduction of a bill to set up procedure for using certain funds for the education of physically and mentally handicapped children.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth appeared before the committee to ask the bill's introduction.

The bill would allow a county's governing board to set up a revolving fund out of the county general fund for use by the county superintendent to pay for special education for physically and mentally handicapped children.

The county general fund would then be reimbursed by schools which had contracted for such services with the county superintendent.

Ruhnke told the committee the need for such a program now exists in Thayer County. He said the same situation might also exist in other counties or could in the future.

Physicist Says Society Exhausting Resources

The Lincoln Rotary club Tuesday heard today's civilization described as a "spendthrift one, living on the capital reserves of oil and coal and other minerals found in the earth."

"The end of these must eventually come and that day is being hastened by the ever-increasing demands made by rising populations, insisting on higher living standards," Nobel Prize-winning physicist Dr. E. T. S. Walton of Dublin, Ireland said.

Dr. Walton, in Lincoln for a two-day visit at Nebraska Wesleyan University, told the Rotarians at a noon luncheon meeting that to meet the situation which must arrive eventually, we should be using the present era to learn how to live when our capital reserves are exhausted.

"The development of power from nuclear fusion would open up to us supplies of fuel in the oceans which would last us for all forseeable time," he said. "As power is probably the basic material requirement, ample supplies of it are probably the necessary and sufficient condition for a continuation into the distant future of our civilization."

"Prophecy," Dr. Walton said, "is an attractive but dangerous pastime. At any time a new and totally unsuspected phenomenon may be discovered which will revolutionize scientific ideas and may eventually effect our everyday life."

"However, one can safely predict a continuation of research along present lines with the expectation of finding much new and important information, especially by the use of radioactive isotopes in the fields of chemistry and biology."

Dr. and Mrs. Walton arrived in Lincoln Monday night from Salina, Kan. Their tour of the United States, sponsored by the national Methodist Board of Education, will include 19 different college campuses.

The physicist shared the 1951 Nobel prize with Sir John Cockroft for "pioneering work on nuclear transmutations by artificially accelerated particles."

Dr. Walton will address the Wesleyan student body at a chapel service Wednesday morning.

Dependent Children Aid Hike OK'd

Nebraska's Legislature voted 40-0 Tuesday to increase the assistance payments made to dependent children in the state.

Passed and sent to the governor for signature was LB416, increasing from $85 to $100 the monthly welfare payment to a home with one dependent child.

The measure makes no change in the level of payments to dependent children in excess of one. The 2nd, 3rd and 4th dependent child will continue to receive aid at the rate of $15 each per month; children in excess of 4 at a $10 rate.

LB416 was introduced by Sens. Norman Otto of Kearney, Stanley Portsche and Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln.

The bill would take effect 90 days atfer the Legislature adjourns.

Other bills passed on final reading Tuesday (E—emergency clause):

LB307 (Waldo, Ruhnke, Olinger)—prohibiting the manufacture or distribution of virulent hog cholera virus or modified live hog cholera vaccine without a permit. 39-0.

LB358 (Judiciary)—specifying when a judgement or order for alimony or maintenance shall cease to be a lien upon property. 39-0.

LB360 (Judiciary)—providing, in respect to real property, that possibilities of reverter or rights of entry or re-entry for breach of condition are future interests and not alienable or devisable. (E). 39-1.

LB361 (Judiciary)—providing that testamentary gifts of money or securities may be made to minors under the same terms and conditions as now provided for inter vivos gifts under the Nebraska Uniform Gifts to minors Act. 40-0.

LB458 (Judiciary)—providing for service of process—in civil actions growing out of motor vehicle operations—on a Nebraskan who moves out of the state after the incident involved. 38-0.

LB481 (Otto, Swanson)—increasing from $1,000 to $2,000 the value of purchases which first class cities can make without a prior estimate by the city engineer and without advertising for bids. (E). 39-2.

Request To Sell Off-Sale Beer Denied By Board

A request by Tastee Inn Inc. of Lincoln for an off-sale beer license at 3410 Cornhusker was denied Tuesday afternoon by the Lancaster County Board.

The Board took the action after a public hearing attended by about 30 persons. Only a representative of Tastee Inn appeared in favor of the application.

Opposition came from residents of the area and Nebraska Wesleyan University officials, County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne reported.

The denial was in line with a policy established by the Board in 1954, when it decided not to issue any new beer licenses in the county. Only renewals have been issued since that time.

Prison Riot Ends

... In Meek Surrender

Fort Pillow Prison Farm, Tenn. (AP)—After 14 hours of siege, convicts barricaded in a dormitory here surrendered Tuesday. Two captive guards threatened with death were not hurt.

The end came suddenly, almost nonchalantly, after Keith Hampton, state commissioner of institutions, had ordered highway patrol forces at the scene to wait out the situation.

Nine men were removed from the some 130 convicts in the dormitory and moved to the maximum security prison at Nashville. They were described as the leaders.

No Other Punishment

Other than the transfer, Hampton said no other punishment was planned. The move puts the 9 men behind steel bars, instead of dormitory life on this minimum security prison farm.

"I do not plan to prosecute them for inciting to riot, which is the only charge that could be brought against them, because I don't consider this a riot," the commissioner said.

The two hostages—Jubie Voss, 49, and Hubert Neyman, 57—came out of the dormitory drawn but smiling.

The guards were trapped Monday night when the men staged an unexpected uprising, bashing out the lights and piling bunks and mattresses against the doors and windows to block possible tear gas projectiles.

The barricaded convicts demanded and got a conference with state officials on prison farm conditions.

Judges' Pay Increase Bill Moves Up

A bill to increase the salaries of the Supreme Court and district court judges passed its major floor hurdle Tuesday 26-11 after much amending.

The original amounts asked in the bill were cut in committee and again on the floor Tuesday. Under the amended bill Supreme Court justices will receive $13,000 a year, an increase of $1,000 while district court judges will be raised $1,000 to $11,000.

An amendment was tacked on to the bill which will raise the salary of the governor from $11,000 to $14,000.

The bill had originally asked $16,000 for the Supreme Court judges and $14,000 for district court judges. Motions to cut the amounts on the floor came from Sen. John Aufenkamp of Julian, head of the Salaries and Claims Committee.

In earlier debate on the bill, introducer Sen. David Tews of Norfolk said the 1920 constitutional convention had agreed that members of Congress, the University of Nebraska chancellor and Supreme Court and district court judges should all receive the same amount. He pointed out that the chancellor and congressmen now receive more than $20,000.

State-Employe Civil Service Bill Hits Committee Deadlock

By Betty Person

A bill which would provide a civil service system for state employes was held Tuesday when the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee deadlocked 3-3 on a motion to kill the measure.

One comittee member was absent when the vote was taken. The full committee is expected to meet Wednesday to act upon the measure, LB-716, introduced by Sen. Norman Otto of Kearney at the request of Gov. Ralph Brooks.

The civil service system proposed in LB716 would cover all state employes except elective officials and their deputies or those appointed to fill vacancise therein; members of boards, bureaus and commissions; department heads appointed by the governor; employees in the governor's office and the Legislature; judges; referees; receivors, jurors and notaries public.

Nebraska now has a merit system which covers employes in departments which receive federal grants-in-aid: the Health Department, Department of Public Welfare, and Employment Security.

Gordon E. Brewer of Washington, D.C., civil service counsel for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes affiliated with the AFL-CIO, presented the main testimony at the hearing. No one appeared in opposition to the bill.

Brewer said only 16 states have the merit system now used in Nebraska and that the "remainder of the 50 states have civil service."

Brewer maintained that under a civil service system government costs can be reduced through more efficient operation as a result of a reduction in personnel turnover.

The federation representative said salaries paid in Nebraska state government "do not compare favorably with those in private business," but suggested that "tenure and job security will help to reduce turnover."

He said that "70% of the causes (of turnover) can be eliminated under a good civil service program such as is proposed in this bill."

The bill calls for the program to be administered by a 3-member commission appointed by the governor. The commission would appoint a director, who would be under civil service, and the director would prepare rules for the program which the commission would accept or reject after holding hearings thereon.

Persons now holding state government positions would not be required to take examinations to hold their present jobs, but would be qualified for their respective positions by submitting data as to their age and qualifications as might be required by the director.

Persons discharged for cause would be entitled to hearings before the commission if they so desired. Vacancies or new jobs would be filled from lists of eligibles qualified on the basis of examinations.
